

DIXIE IS SWEEPED BY FIRST COLD WAVE OF YEAR

Winter Supplants Fall as Weatherman Predicts Killing Frost and Lower Temperatures.

KENTUCKY REPORTS FIRST FALL SNOW

Rains Indicated in Southeast as Mercury Sends Populace Scrambling for Wraps.

By the Associated Press.
Falling temperatures were reported in the middle and South Atlantic states Wednesday night on the heels of a forecast which read: "Fair and colder." Indications in many localities were that winter had supplanted fall throughout Dixie and that the next 48 hours would usher in the first continued cold spell since the first of October.

Asheville, N. C. reported the lowest temperature with a mark of 32. Memphis, Birmingham and Atlanta were tied at 42, two degrees below the minimum mark for New York city. Vicksburg, Miss., recorded a count of 46; Mobile, 48, and New Orleans, 54.

In Florida the marks ranged from 58 at Jacksonville, to 80 at Miami, indicating that the cold spell had stopped on the edge of the peninsular state.

Rains were indicated in the forecast for North and South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Mississippi, Louisiana, Arkansas, Oklahoma and Texas.

Atlanta and vicinity will be visited by a killing frost Friday morning, according to a forecast by the local weather man, who also declared freezing temperatures may be expected in the northwest and extreme north-eastern portions of the state.

The first southern snow of the winter was reported in Louisville, and other sections of Kentucky Wednesday, although the fall was light.

ATLANTA TO NEED "HEAVIES" TODAY

Atlantans should keep their overcoats out ready for use today, and as a precaution against what is on the way, they should shake the moths out of the old muffler and dig up the "heavies" for instant use.

The cold wave hit the city Wednesday night and will grow more severe today, Weather Forecaster C. F. von Herrmann said, when the mercury is slated to skid dangerously near freezing temperature and a killing frost will be missing only because of strong winds. The skid will be unchecked today, and by Friday morning, the promise continued, the first freeze of the winter will visit the city.

Wednesday's lowest temperature, Mr. von Herrmann said, was 43 early in the morning and a high point was reached at 62.

The cold wave scheduled for Atlanta is riding from the northwest.

Cocaine Party Raid Results In 13 Arrests

"Snow Festival" in Progress When Halted, Officers Report.

Thirteen persons were arrested Wednesday night in a raid by federal narcotic agents and city detectives on the Ivy Inn, 195 Ivy street, where officers allege a "snow party" or cocaine "festival" was in progress. A small quantity of cocaine was seized, the officers' report stated.

Believed by police to be the ring leader of a dope gang, Luther Shapton, 35, of 1251 Piedmont avenue, is being held without bond for hearing today before U. S. Commissioner L. S. Ledbetter, as a result of the raid. Narcotic agents said this is the fifth case they have against Shapton.

The "snow party" was at its height when officers entered an uninvited guests, police said. Entrance was easy for officers as all they had to do was climb stairs to the second floor and enter, unannounced, they declared.

Police reported that an employee of the narcotic squad went to the alleged dive Wednesday afternoon and, presenting a marked $5 bill, obtained a quantity of dope. He repeated the performance Wednesday night with another marked bill, and reported that the cocaine party was in progress.

A raid followed immediately. Besides Shapton, the following persons were arrested, all except Shapton being charged with occupying a dive:

L. O. Thompson, 41, of 1251 Piedmont avenue; J. C. Robinson, 29; D. S. Arnold, 37; C. F. Martin, 38, of Ivy Inn; Dwight L. McLean, 38, of 59 Astor avenue; E. Pagleno, 30; P. L. Lorett, 22, and C. J. Carros, 25, soldiers at Fort McPherson; Mrs. W. H. Williams, of Midtown Inn; C. C. Crooks, 32, of 570 North Boulevard; "Hop" Ward, 32, of 454 Stewart avenue, and Arthur Davis, negro porter at the Ivy Inn. They were released on $50 bonds each.

Participating in the raid were Agents H. C. Dezan, P. A. Williams, P. L. Girard, Malcom Beach and H. F. Keiger, and Detectives W. D. McGee and L. W. Satterfield.

MAYOR IS HOPING FOR BOND ELECTION DURING DECEMBER

COLE AND SCHULZ HOLD CONFERENCE

N. C. & St. L. President Summons Viaduct Engineer to Nashville To Go Over Plans.

With prompt action by the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis railroad indicated in its consideration of viaduct plans accepted by the bridge committee of council Monday, it is probable that a bond issue consolidating needs of the city will be submitted to the people some time during the month of December, according to a statement Wednesday by Mayor Walter A. Sims.

Through a sudden change in plans, Engineer W. F. Schulz was called to Nashville Wednesday to confer with W. R. Cole, president of the railroad, and it develops at this conference that the railroad will approve the $1,400,000 plan, the bond issue can be ready for submission in December, Mayor Sims pointed out.

Earlier plans in the viaduct matter called for a conference here Friday, which was to have been attended by members of a special subcommittee headed by the mayor and Alderman W. B. Hartsfield, chairman of the bridge committee of council, and a personal representative of President Cole. It developed Wednesday, however, that the personal representative of the railroad man came to Atlanta Tuesday, and after a talk with Engineer Schulz he and the engineer left Wednesday for Nashville to confer with the railroad president.

Will Press for Action.

"If the railroad approves these plans, we will take steps at once to prepare for submission of a consolidated bond issue," Mayor Sims said.

This comes in direct contradiction of plans of the special bond committee of council headed by Alderman W. R. DuVal. In a statement issued Tuesday, Alderman DuVal said it would be impossible to prepare the consolidated bond issue for submission to the people before January.

Plans of the special bond committee calls for a $12,000,000 bond issue and a tax rate of 25 cents.

Hinges on Road's Approval.

"If we secure approval of the railroad, we will be in a position to proceed," Mayor Sims said.

STIGALL, SLAYER, ASKS FOR PARDON

Former City Detective, Who Shot W. H. Hames in 1923, Has Served More Than Year.

Application for parole for E. C. Stigall, former Atlanta city detective, now serving a prison sentence after conviction of killing W. H. Hames, private detective, has been filed with the Georgia prison commission.

Date for hearing on the petition has not yet been set, notice of opposition to clemency for Stigall having been filed. That body will direct the petitioners and opponents of the petition to agree on a date suitable to both sides.

Stigall was convicted in Fulton superior court on September 22, 1923, for killing Hames on August 17, the same year. He was sentenced to serve not less than 15 nor more than 10 years in state prison. The trial, which occupied almost a week, was marked by conflicting testimony and many sensational developments.

Hames was killed by Stigall on Houston street, near the corner of Courtland, and at the same time two companions of Hames, Ernest Stanton and W. H. Kirk, were wounded. The defense tried to prove that Hames, Stanton and Kirk were "out to frame" Stigall on account of his activities as chief of the anti-vice squad of the police department, and claimed the shooting was in self-defense. The state charged Stigall had accepted graft money, and that Hames had threatened to denounce him to his superiors.

Stigall has served more than a year.

Construction of Dam No. 3, Either by Government or Private Interests, Declared Advisable.

Birmingham, Ala., October 28.—(AP)—New lands to be cultivated, new sources of energy to be developed, and new wealth to be created in the south constitute "the best hopes for the future of the nation," declared Dr. Frederick L. Hoffman, statistician of the Prudential Insurance company today before the Southern governors' conference.

The industrial south is watched "with amazement by those of the north and west who see their industries migrating to other and more promising fields," he said. He forecast tremendous possibilities for water power development and lauded health officials of the southern states for their efforts in reducing mortality and improving sanitary conditions of the territory.

Change Is Revelation.

The change in southern health conditions is nothing "less than a revelation," said Dr. Hoffman. "Only those who vividly recall the deplorable sanitary state of the old south, following the war between the states, can fully appreciate what has been achieved."

Dr. Hoffman discussed in detail the successful effort to reduce deaths from yellow fever, typhoid, malaria and hookworm. He emphasized particularly the progress made by the authorities of Virginia, which state, he declared, has as low normal death rate as any one of the leading northern states. He attributed the forward results in Virginia largely to the co-operative county health work, in which local authorities are assisted by state and federal experts.

Further Progress Seen.

The speaker submitted to the conference the belief that still further progress in health work would be assured by state legislation providing for the inclusion of the commonwealth of the south in the regulation area, thus making certain the complete and accurate collection of vital statistics.

"Such statistics," he said, "are absolutely essential for a variety of purposes and by common consent are the basis of all public health activities. Among the states which do not provide for adequate registration are Alabama, Arkansas, West Virginia and Texas."

He commended highly the work already accomplished by health officers of the south, referring to New Orleans as a specific example. The mortality rate in that city, he pointed out, has been reduced to 14.6 per thousand from the rate of 30 per thousand 50 years ago. In commenting on the work of the sanitation to be done in the south, Mr. Hoffman said:

"The task confronting the south is one of colossal proportions. It is to be hoped that the forthcoming conference of the southern states should not build dam No. 3, the company said that the demand for power would make it necessary for private capital to do so without cost to the government, except for the cost charged to navigation.

'Cement Head' Insanity Given As Plea by Chicago Lawyer

NEW TYPE INVENTED FOR ACCUSED WARDEN

By Earl J. Johnson.
United News Staff Correspondent.
Chicago, October 28.—Out of the whirlpool of Chicago courts, where queer mental twists have saved many a murderer from the gallows, has come a new plea of insanity.

Not far from where Clarence Darrow saved the lives of Nathan Leopold and Richard Loeb by arguing that they were suffering from abnormal mind glands, and where William Scott Stewart saved Russell Scott by convincing a jury he was a victim of "cell shock," has been born the new malady of "cement head."

It was used for the first time Wednesday by State Senator James J. Barbour, attorney for Wesley Westbrook, ex-warden of the Cook county jail. Westbrook is under a four months' sentence for his part in the jail scandal, which already has enmeshed 11 officials and guards.

"A cement head" condition, the attorney declared, made the warden do everything Sheriff Peter Hoffman told him to do without weighing the orders in his own mind. Hoffman, who is under a 30-day sentence for contempt of court in connection with the beer baron affair, was the one actually responsible, Senator Barbour said.

PAINLEVE ACCEPTS MISSION TO FORM NEW GOVERNMENT

Life of Government Regarded as Precarious, Due to Division of Radicals Upon Capital Levy.

Paris, October 28.—(AP)—At an early hour this morning, Premier Painleve succeeded in completing a cabinet, which is satisfactory to everybody, and this morning will present the personnel to President Doumergue.

In it M. Painleve takes over the portfolio of minister of finance. Aristides Briand retains the portfolio of foreign minister.

The socialists after consulting with Premier Painleve declined participation in the new ministry.

Paris, October 28.—(AP)—M. Painleve, after conferring with M. Herriot and M. Briand, accepted the mission to form a new government tendered him by President Doumergue this afternoon. The new cabinet, according to present indications, will have M. Briand as minister of foreign affairs, and M. Laucheur as minister of finance, with the premier remaining at the war office.

The new ministry will be composed so as to conform to the resolution adopted by the radical convention at Nice in favor of a capital levy and by a resolution adopted by the groups of the left today, demanding the return to power of several members of former Premier Herriot's cabinet.

Two Certain of Office.

Camille Chautemps, former minister of the interior, and Raymond Dugues, former minister of colonies, are regarded as certain to come back.

In view of M. Painleve's concessions to the groups of the left, his success in forming a new combination is regarded as assured, though the life of such a cabinet, formed to put through a capital levy, is considered precarious. Socialist support of the new government depends upon the early introduction of such a measure.

Radical Party Split.

The radical party, however, is split on the question. Canvass of the group in the Chamber of Deputies indicated that at least 30 of its members are opposed absolutely to a levy on capital. Such a defection from a coalition of the left in the Chamber would make the government majority too scanty for certain success.

A similar canvass of the Senate showed an overwhelming majority against the measure, which the socialists and extreme radicals insist upon, and which is the price of their support of M. Painleve's second government.

Parents Have More To Learn Than Children, Novelist Finds

DECLARES SKIDS UNDER MODERN PARENTS

New York, October 28.—Speaking "merely as a parent," Dorothy Canfield Fisher, the novelist, tends to the belief that parents have more to learn than their children.

Her views—outspoken views against the conventional methods of fathers and mothers—were revealed Wednesday night when she addressed the conference on modern parenthood.

"Parents have been left too much to wallow in their own ignorance," she said.

"In this business of rearing children they have had their own way far too long, deprived of any supervision from the very helpful monitor—other people's estimate of their value."

"The skids are under modern parents," she said, adding that she was glad to see "experts of all kinds poking their noses into what has always been considered none of their business."

The conference, called by the Child Study association, according to Mrs. Fisher, is fighting for an abstract idea which concerns the whole race—that there is rather something wrong with society than there is with human beings. This is proved, she said, when a sickly baby, under proper care becomes strong and healthy, and when a "bad," sly, cheating boy is transformed by intelligent supervision into an upright character.

Mrs. Fisher urged parents to discard such theories as that "every child must go through evil" and that "every child has bursts of temper and is neurotic and destructive."

Intelligent rearing has proved that children can be free from ills in babyhood and that their destructiveness is the first evidence of the creative instinct, she explained.

Urging her audience to continue their work, Mrs. Fisher asserted: "Every time we ordinary one-in-a-million parents prove these things, it may be that we are bringing a contribution towards the long, slow task of convincing the world that being a human being does not necessarily mean working at something you don't enjoy. In order to get living a life you find very flat and dull."

COOLIDGE'S WORDS CITED IN DEFENSE OF HIS CRITICISM

Successful in Ridding Court of Three Members, Flier Challenges Jurisdiction of All.

CLAIMS NO OFFENSE BY MILITARY LAW

Question of Whether Trial Will Proceed Depends Upon Judge Advocate's Ruling Today.

BY ROBERT D. LUSK.
Washington, October 28.—Citing President Coolidge as indirectly championing his right to criticize the army and navy, Colonel William Mitchell has launched a vigorous defense of the action which caused his court-martial.

Successfully ridding the court of three of his judges whom he charged with bias, Mitchell climaxed the first day of his trial by challenging the jurisdiction of the military court to sit in judgment on him.

Through his civilian counsel, Representative Frank P. Reid, of Illinois, Mitchell declared that he had committed no offense defined in military law or the articles of war under which he was brought to the bar of military justice.

Decide Question Today.

This question, the decision on which will mean either that Mitchell's trial proceeds or ends, probably will be decided Thursday after Trial Judge Advocate Colonel Sherman Moreland, the war department's prosecutor, defends the right of the court to judge Mitchell.

Should the court overrule Mitchell's plea, it will immediately be besieged by additional pleas on different grounds, all of which will challenge the court-martial's jurisdiction.

Mitchell, facing probable repudiation or dismissal from the service, which he has been a part of since before the Spanish-American war as private and later brigadier general, has found place in an address made by President Coolidge at the naval academy on June 3, last, when the commander-in-chief of the army and navy, said:

"The officers of the navy are given the fullest latitude in expressing their views before their fellow citizens, subject, of course, to the requirements of not betraying those confidential affairs which would be detrimental to the service."

"It seems to me," the president said at that time, "perfectly proper for anyone upon any suitable occasion to advocate the maintenance of a navy in keeping with the greatness and dignity of our country."

IMPROVED HEALTH CONDITIONS IN SOUTH

gross will deal more liberally and judiciously with the present situation.

Reclamation as a force in the development of the south of Florida was discussed by Fred Elliott, chief drainage engineer of that state, at the evening session. Mr. Elliott touched upon the gradual pushing back of the Everglades and the conversion of waste land into valuable territory, and pointed out that the same means may be adopted for use in other sections of the south in the movement to develop the section to its highest possible point.

The conference opened its sessions this morning, when Governor Henry L. Whitfield, Mississippi, who called the executives together, sounded the keynote of the purpose of the meeting by declaring that "reclamation projects in the south deserve and should have additional federal aid."

Has Not Received Share.

Governor Whitfield asserted that "the south has not received its rightful share of national resources such as the importance of our section justifies," and based his assertion on references to federal appropriations for harbor development in the east and land development in the west.

Formation of a south-wide conference to work for the common interests of the south at large was the first move of the gathering of executives. Governor T. G. McLeod, South Carolina, was elected permanent chairman of the conference and L. J. Folse, manager of the Mississippi state board of development, was made permanent secretary. Other executives present were E. E. Edson, Mississippi; R. L. Arnold and Wilber A. Nelson, both of Virginia, were named members of the conference committee.

Governor W. W. Brandon, Alabama, extended a welcome to the visiting executives and Senators Oscar W. Underwood and J. Thomas Heflin, both of Alabama, were included in the list of speakers of the morning.

Must Market Products.

Senator Underwood told the conference that whatever is accomplished in the south will be unavailing unless the products of the section can get to market. He declared that the south has permitted one of the "greatest political organizations—the interstate commerce commission"—to exist with out having representation. He suggested that the conference endeavor to bring about a spirit of cooperation in the appointment of candidates to vacancies on the I. C. C. and other bureaus of the nation, so that the best men may be available and therefore stand the greater chance of receiving appointments.

Senator Heflin spoke of the present system of collecting crop data, branding it "invariably inaccurate," and suggested that the states maintain individual bureaus for collecting this data.

Mr. Folse blamed the south for its own condition. "We are all too prone to sit back and attend to our own personal affairs," Mr. Folse said, "we didn't pay any more attention to our private affairs than we do to government matters, we wouldn't have any private business."

Two Speak in Afternoon.

The afternoon session was featured by addresses by E. E. Blake, chairman of the Oklahoma irrigation, drainage and reclamation commission, and Hugh McKee, North Carolina.

Mr. Blake told the conference of the accomplishments achieved by reclamation in Oklahoma and stressed the value of such work on the future of the south.

Colonization in the southern states was the topic of Mr. McKee's address. He recounted the results of colonization in many sections in which he cooperated and urged that the conference give this work due consideration. Governors Henry L. Whitfield, Mississippi; William W. Brandon, Alabama; E. Lee Trinkle, Virginia; Thomas J. Terrill, Arkansas; Thomas G. McLeod, South Carolina; and Austin Peay, Tennessee, were present today when the conference opened. Senators Underwood and Heflin, other business representatives and well-known business men of the south were also present at the first session.

navy applies to the army, Mitchell contends.

Mitchell's defense was outlined clearly during the discussion of the jurisdiction question brought up by his counsel. It anticipated the expected decision of the court that it has the right to judge him. His defense will hinge entirely upon the right of freedom of speech should technicalities, involving lack of alleged comprehension on the part of the charges and specifications, under which he is being tried, fail to divert the court from further prosecution.

The intrepid air colonel was "within his fundamental and constitutional rights" when he criticized the administration of the country's air service, because, Reid declared, "he discussed only public questions and matters of public welfare."

Summing up a comprehensive argument against the court-martial jurisdiction, Reid said that the whole question involved is—"Are soldiers people?"

Denies Limits Abridged. He pointed out that soldiers have constitutional rights which "up to now" have never been questioned. Reid admitted that the limitations of free speech applied equally to soldiers and to citizens, but he denied that Mitchell, in the statements which led to his court-martial, had abridged any of the prescribed limitations.

The attack on the court's right to hear the charges came at the end of a day, during which the prosecution and the defense laid down a barrage and counter-barrage of words through which sputtered now and then a noise of the pyrotechnics which may be expected if the trial progresses.

The full directly attributable to the ponderous "red tape" of the court-martial, and which necessitated the reading of a several-thousand-word statement, with each of the first four of the eight specifications making up a part of the charges against Mitchell, broke when Mitchell's counsel attacked three members of the court for prejudice.

General Bowley Disqualified. First to go was Brigadier General A. J. Bowley, of Fort Bragg, N. C., who admitted recently taking empathic issue with Mitchell's plan for a unified air service.

Bowley's going was mild. Not so when Reid challenged Major General Charles P. Summerall, commandant of the second army corps area at New York, designated president of the court and the highest ranking active officer in the army. Summerall's testimony, given recently before the president's special aircraft board, was seized upon by Mitchell's counsel as indicative of Summerall's unfriendly attitude. Reid then read a report made by Mitchell, which flayed the air defenses of Hawaii while Summerall was in command there, which Summerall contended showed Mitchell's enmity to him.

Summerall's going was dramatic. He asked leave to withdraw, not, however, until he had fired this parting shot:

Begs To Be Excused. "I would not consider sitting on the trial of a man who bears such enmity towards me, and I beg the court to be excused."

Next of the moves which can be considered as Mitchell victories marked the end of Major General Fred W. Sladen, superintendent of the West Point Military academy, as a member of the court. That ended Mitchell's peremptory challenges. The prosecution was content with the court's personnel. Major General Robert L. Howze, commandant of the fifth corps area, Columbus, Ohio, was named president in Summerall's place and the trial proceeded.

To Colonel Joseph McMullen, assistant trial judge advocate, fell the task of reading the many-worded statements of Mitchell. Throughout a tedious day, he troned the words in a monotone. On his desk, as aids to which he had frequent recourse, were several brands of throat lozenges.

Anxious to Speed Case. A wearied court sat around a semi-circular table eager to get the preliminaries over with.

Colonel Mitchell, flanked by his counsel, Mrs. Mitchell, wrapped in a long coat and wearing a close-fitting black turban; his father-in-law, Sidney Miller, and his sister, Mrs. Young, faced the court. Back of them ranged the press and a public that had besieged the doors of the evil-smelling, damp, old government storehouse at the foot of Capitol hill. Soldiers kept guard in the hallways. Military discipline was apparent everywhere.

Overnight the court will wrestle with the question of its jurisdiction, determining whether as Mitchell's counsel contends, the accusing specifications are lax and faultily drawn up in that they fail to deal comprehensively with the specific points of article 50 of the articles of war under which Mitchell was court-martialed.

road some time in the next few days we will have no trouble in preparing the consolidated bond issue for submission to the people this year, probably in December," Mayor Sims said. "The bond election must be advertised thirty days in advance, but this can be done and still leave plenty of time for the election this year."

The viaduct plan was adopted by the bridge committee of council and a special committee representing property owners and other interests. If the railroad approves the plans, a meeting of the subcommittee headed by the mayor, the state committee, headed by the governor, and railroad representatives will be held as early as possible for final ratification of the plan.

Under the plan approved, viaducts will be constructed on Pryor street from Decatur to Hunter street and on Central avenue from Decatur to Hunter street. Alabama street will be leveled from Whitehall to Central avenue. A walkway will be built from the proposed Pryor street viaduct to the Whitehall street viaduct. A two-level street will be established on Wall street between the Whitehall and Central avenue viaducts. The present level will form one of the decks, and the second deck will be level with the pavement of the two viaducts.

John W. Bale, of Rome, led the discussion in favor of repealing the tax. He introduced a resolution to this effect at yesterday's session.

It was pointed out by those favoring the tax that if this amount was not imposed on candidates coming into the fraternity the grand lodge would have to make other provisions for helping to finance the Masonic home.

The session closed after the installation of officers in regular form. There were a number of reports submitted during the morning bearing on Masonic matters.

The session this year was attended by more than 1,200 delegates and the reports of the various officers showed that great strides have been made in various branches of the craft since the meeting last year.

The Masonic grand lodge decided to put on a drive among members during Thanksgiving week for $44,000 to complete the sanitarium at Alto for tubercular children, which it will turn over to the state when completed. Reports showed $12,000 of the fund has been raised. The hospital will be open to all tubercular children, it was announced, and will have a capacity of at least 50 in the first unit.

13 Boys Educated. In the report of the educational committee it was shown that the grand lodge is supporting 13 boys in college.

The trustees of the Masonic home reported that there are 138 children being cared for in that institution. The endowment fund for the home was shown to be: Cash, $27,480.00; bonds, $143,635.

It was shown that during the year a total of $11,634.30 was disbursed by the grand lodge for the relief of aged Masons.

Membership Is 80,000.

The report of Grand Secretary Frank F. Baker showed that 3,000 new members have been taken into the order during the year, bringing the total membership up to 80,000.

The grand lodge at its closing session here this afternoon voted to proceed at once with the construction of a grand lodge headquarters building in this city, to house the office of the secretary and other officers of the order, the building also to contain an auditorium large enough to accommodate the grand lodge.

A committee will be appointed by the new grand master, W. S. Richardson, of Atlanta, with full power to proceed with the construction of the building, under the action of the grand lodge today.

The grand lodge of Georgia owns the lot on a downtown corner where the building is to be erected.

A jewel was presented to J. D. Hamrick, retiring grand master.

Under Control.

Physician—I am afraid you have been eating too much cake and candy.

AUTO SALES MEET HERE NOVEMBER 3

For the first time in its history, the National Automobile Dealers' association is to hold a sales congress here at the Atlanta Woman's club auditorium for an all-day session Tuesday, November 3.

More than 200 automobile dealers from Georgia and other southern states are expected, and the Atlanta Automobile association, through whose cooperation the sales congress is brought here, has extended an invitation to all automobile dealers in the south to attend. Dealers from all parts of Georgia, South Carolina and Florida have signified their intention of being present. John E. Smith, of Atlanta, chairman of the seventh district of the automobile dealers' association, is in charge of arrangements. The meeting will bring together members of the southeastern division of the National Automobile Dealers' association and the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce. It will bring to all auto dealers instruction from the leading authorities in the country on how the automotive industry in its sales branch can be operated to the greatest advantage. Among the prominent speakers who will take part in the congress will be Lynn A. Shaw, assistant general manager of the National Automobile Dealers' association, of St. Louis; H. L. Bullock, sales manager, of San Francisco; Edward Payton, market analyst, of Cleveland, Ohio; and A. H. Kroh, sales specialist, of Chicago.

INSPECTORS ORDERED TO RIDE OR RESIGN

Sanitary inspectors of Atlanta must use horses provided for them in their inspection work or resign, according to an order to the sanitary department Wednesday by the sanitary committee of council through Councilman W. E. Saunders, chairman. There are nine inspectors and Chairman Saunders said it had been brought to the attention of the committee that these inspectors were trying to discharge their duties on foot. "The horses were purchased for these men so that they could cover a wide territory in their work and we will insist that they ride these horses or resign," he said. Chief John Jentzen of the sanitary department will carry out the instructions of the committee.

FAMOUS BARITONE SOLOIST WITH BAND

Interest of local music lovers centers about the announcement that the United States navy band will play here in two concerts at the auditorium on Monday, November 2. The band is composed of 60 musicians and has been recognized by act of congress as President Coolidge's official band.

It is making its first southern trip in accordance with the president's wish that its music be not restricted to social functions at Washington but perform in cities of the country.

The Atlanta Lions club and the Atlanta Woman's club are sponsoring the appearance of the band here and are arranging to bring to the matinee concert patients from the base hospital and children from city orphanages.

All proceeds above expenses are to be devoted to charity by the two organizations, the Lions club using its share to maintain a class of blind children in the public schools and for classes in sight conservation which were recently established by the board of education. The Atlanta Woman's club, it is understood, will use its proceeds toward operation expenses of a school for mountain children.

Concerts will take place at 3 o'clock in the afternoon and 8:30 at night. Seats are being offered at popular prices. There are five outstanding soloists in this band and one with a most picturesque career, both musical and military, is Jean Mangano.

Similarity of Twins Befuddles Marine Recruiting Officer

BY BEN COOPER.
The task of distinguishing Tweedle-dum and Tweedledee confronted U. S. Marine recruiting officers and examining physicians Wednesday when Fred L. and Frank L. Smith, 19-year-old twins, of Gainesville, applied for enlistment.

As much alike as two peas in a pod, and dressed similarly, the twins appeared at the recruiting offices and announced their decision to join the "devil dogs." They are likely looking chaps, and the recruiting force was delighted at the prospect of gaining a couple of husky lads for Uncle Sammy.

The mix-up in identity began the moment they entered the office. In the examination it was necessary for Lieutenant Frank R. Decker, examining officer, to tie a red string around one of the twin's neck, and a blue around the other's neck, to distinguish them.

Fred was turned down on account of a minor physical defect, and announced his intention of having an operation to correct it and then trying again. Frank was accepted.

The twins then were taken to Captain J. M. Swinnerton, who is in charge of the district recruiting office. Frank was sworn in, and Fred just to keep company with his brother. Captain Swinnerton entered the office, and, after being advised there was a man to be sworn in, called: "Smithy."

Both boys came forward. Captain Swinnerton was in a quandary. "Which is which?" he asked. "I'm Frank," the owner of that name replied and the captain hurried with the oath before he was mixed again.

ALDERMAN DOBBS TAKES NEW OFFICE

Alderman W. Guy Dobbs, of the seventh ward, assumed his new duties Wednesday as chairman of the fire committee of council, succeeding Jesse W. Armistead, resigned. The committee held its first meeting under the new chairman but only considered routine matters, according to Chairman Dobbs. The new chairman was nominated in the recent primaries as alderman to succeed Mr. Armistead. Alderman Armistead resigned so his successor might begin his work earlier.

TO RELEASE GILBERT UNDER BOND TODAY

Rogers Gilbert, white, indicted jointly with Jack B. Waltrip on a charge of the murder, on September 18, of Leonard Lanford, white, will be released under bond today, according to an announcement Wednesday by Joe Ewing, the defendant's attorney. Lanford was shot and killed in an altercation with Gilbert and Waltrip at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Johnson, 114 1-2 Garnett street, it is alleged. The date has not been set for Gilbert's trial.

PURSE SNATCHERS RENEW OPERATIONS

Renewed activities of purse snatchers were revealed Wednesday in a report to police by Mrs. T. P. Bogwell, of Decatur, who stated that her pocketbook containing $25 in cash, a ring of keys and other articles, had been snatched while in a downtown department store.

ORGANIZE CHEST WORKING FORCES

Final steps were taken Wednesday toward organization of principal committees which will have charge of raising $666,000 for the 1925 Community Chest Organization work was effected at meetings held at the chest campaign headquarters at 13-15 Auburn avenue. All arrangements have been completed for launching the campaign on November 9, according to J. M. B. Hoxsey, vice president of the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph company, who is serving as general chairman of the chest campaign this year, and efforts will be made to conclude the campaign within two weeks.

Special attention has been given to selection of campaign committees for this year, the executive committee striving to secure representative business men who can give sufficient time to the work to insure its success. Approximately 4,000 voluntary workers will be in service, and with this personnel it is expected to enroll approximately 35,000 to 45,000 subscribers to the fund.

The chairman and vice chairman of the principal committees are announced as follows: Executive committee: J. M. B. Hoxsey, chairman; E. R. Black and T. H. Daniel, vice chairman; Roy P. Gates, manager; W. R. C. Smith, J. P. Allen, Harold Hirsch, A. S. Adams, H. G. Hastings, Charles H. Candler, J. W. Bell, Ed H. Luman, R. C. Darby, William Candler, H. M. Atkinson, Lee Ashcraft, Walter A. Sims, J. Carroll Payne, Milton Dargatz, W. W. Orr, S. C. Duhon, Louis J. Elise, Clark Russell, Sr., Cam D. Dorsey, Jack Cohen, P. A. Wilson, Lawrence, J. J. Spaulding, F. O. Stone, Vinton Moore, G. F. Willis, Carter Woodford, J. S. Kennedy, R. L. Foreman, E. Martin Underwood, H. E. Choate, T. C. Lay, Charles H. Walker, Edwin Johnson, Julian V. Hoad and Kendall Weisiger, vice chairman; W. E. Harrington, John M. Slaton, Jr., R. H. Jones, Sr., Walter Moore, Sam Rothberg and Roy LeCraw, regional commanders. District committee: R. L. Foreman, Sr., chairman. Colored division: Clark Foreman, chairman. Publicity committee: L. D. Hicks, chairman. Speakers committee: Edgar Neely, chairman. Entertainment committee: Julian V. Boehm, chairman. Complaint committee: Hugh M. Willett, chairman.

Careful comparison between results of Community Chest campaigns in Atlanta and those in 63 other cities has been made, according to Roy P. Gates, director and treasurer of the Atlanta chest. The comparison shows that Atlanta is slightly ahead of the average in subscriptions of less than $1,000. It falls far behind in the number and amount of gifts of more than $1,000, however, and efforts will be concentrated on the larger givers this year.

A total of 34 separate agencies are included in the Community Chest budget for 1925, as compared with 23 last year. Palestine Masons TO CONFER DEGREE. Cartersville-Marietta Highway Link Completion Difficulties Are Set Out Engineer Arnold Explains That Roadbed Must Settle Before State Attempts Surfacing.

The state highway department with the cooperation of the county authorities has laid plans to construct a permanent, paved road from Cartersville to Marietta as soon as the road is permanently located and graded and the roadbed is sufficiently settled to warrant application of a permanent surface. It was stated Wednesday by engineers of the department in commenting upon recent publications referring to plans for this road.

A statement given out Wednesday, signed by E. M. Arnold, division engineer, explains in detail the difficulties encountered in the Bartow county link of this project and shows that problems are chiefly engineering difficulties. Reference is made to a statement published in last Sunday's Constitution by B. B. Branson, chairman of the Bartow county commission, and while engineers of the department expressed the opinion that Mr. Branson had set forth the situation very fairly, at the same time they felt the matter should be further explained in justice to the highway department.

It is pointed out in the statement that, regardless of what route is finally chosen for the road, it is not feasible to place permanent paving on new fills and subgrade until the roadbed has had time to properly settle.

If I were a Night Watchman

I WOULD carry one of those long-range flashlights that shoot a beam of light a city block in length!

Wherever I went on my rounds, I'd send the light ahead of me. No lurking skullcracker could take me by surprise. I could sweep a circle 1000 feet in diameter from where I stood.

You bet! My job would be a whole lot safer and pleasanter with a trusty flashlight for companion in the dark and dangerous hours. Of course, it would have to be an Eveready flashlight!

Says...Now Stiff Joints Must Go!

New Discovery Limbers 'Em Up and Even the Creaking Ceases.

Yes, it's true the world progresses. All you have to do nowadays to limber up that old stiff, creaky knee joint is to squeeze a half inch of miracle-working substance from a tube.

Then rub it on the offending part for about a quarter of a minute or until it soaks through the skin and disappears on its errand of mercy. Then read the evening newspaper and go to bed.

The chances are that your misbehaving knee joint will lose its "creak" while you are dreaming about the high fences you used to leap when you were a youngster.

"And in the morning," says one who has tried the new discovery, "you'll feel so happy that you'll want to jump into your sportiest clothes and walk briskly down the street just to show the neighbors that you are not as old as they think you are."

Joint-Ease: They call this wonder-working substance for the reason that when ordinary remedies fail to limber up the stiff, inflamed rheumatic joint or reduce the swelling, Joint-Ease succeeds.

It's a good name for a good, clean, stainless prescription that in just a few months has proven to a multitude of people that lame, swollen, distorted joints can speedily have the kinks taken out of them and work as smoothly as ever.

But Joint-Ease is for bothersome joints, whether in knee, elbow, ankle, hip, shoulder, spine or finger, and for that purpose its sale, at 60 cents a tube, is immense.

Jacobs' Pharmacy sells dozens of tubes of it every week and druggists everywhere report a big demand.

Always remember, when Joint-Ease gets in joint agony gets out—quick.

le, but it is planned to put a gravel or chert surface on at once—which is one type of hard-surface—and when the roadbed has settled and become hard and firm this surface would be utilized as a base material for a permanent paving.

Changed First Plans.

If the highway department had planned to construct only an $80,000 project, as originally planned, it is pointed out, there would have been only three or four miles of road, ending out in the woods, where it would have been of no benefit to the county or traveling public until the balance of the road was constructed to connect with the present road at Emerson, it is set out.

Two surveys have been made, it is stated, one of the present route through the Allatoona mountains. Even using this route, however, it is stated that, on account of railroad grade crossings, steep grades and sharp curves, it would be necessary to relocate most of the road, less than a quarter of a mile of the present route being in such condition that improvement, drainage or relocation is unnecessary.

Arnold's Statement.

The statement from Engineer Arnold, giving the history of the project and explaining the engineering problems, follows:

In 1924 the Bartow county board of commissioners signed a resolution agreeing to appropriate and participate to the extent of $20,000 in a proposed $80,000 paving project between the towns of Cartersville and Marietta, Georgia, and extend from three to four miles north towards Cartersville, or as far as the funds available would go. The survey and location of the road had then not been made, and the representative of the highway department was unable to advise the county commissioners just how far, or the distance the $80,000 would cover, until the location had been made and quantities and estimated computed.

Early in 1925 a location was attempted following the general direction of the present road, but on account of railroad grade crossings, steep grades and sharp curves, the line was mostly relocation, between the Bartow-Cobb county line and the town of Emerson. After the locating engineer had secured the best location possible through the Allatoona mountains, which necessitated two railroad grade separations, as well as a great deal of difficult and expensive grading the federal engineer and representative of the highway department made a very careful inspection and study of the location and found it to be unsatisfactory, and a better and more economical location could be found by making another survey.

The second survey was made, eliminating the Allatoona mountains and railroad grade separations.

The same careful study was given the second location as the first by the federal engineer and highway department engineers, and on account of the greatly improved alignment, grades, and also a small saving in distance, the second location was considered by the engineers of the bureau of public roads and state highway department to be superior to the first location for a permanent road, and was approved and adopted by the state highway department.

The bureau of public roads and the majority of the county board of commissioners. The chairman of the county board of commissioners had many times previously expressed himself to representatives of the highway department as favorable to relocating the road to eliminate the Allatoona mountains and railroad crossings.

Grading Necessary.

Whether the road is constructed on the first or second location, it necessarily would have to be graded and all drainage structures installed to conform to plans and specifications, before any paving of any description is placed.

The adopted location eliminating the Allatoona mountains and other objectionable features, passes through a section of Bartow county, which is now practically inaccessible on account of the absence of roads, and although not as rough as the present road through the Allatoona mountains, is sufficiently rugged in places to make it impossible to place a permanent paving until the fills and subgrade have sufficiently settled.

Must Be Improved.

There is not one-fourth of one mile on the present road in Bartow county that will not have to be improved before a permanent pavement can be placed, and the county commissioners of Bartow county as well as the general public, must recognize and realize that the location, grade and alignment of a road is of prime importance, and is really the only permanent part of any road.

The original agreement with Bartow county to construct from three to four miles of paving did not merely signify that the county would only participate in the permanent surface, but also included the grading and drainage structures which are essential to any permanent paving project.

It is the present purpose of the highway department, through the cooperation of the county authorities, to place a permanent paving from Cartersville to Marietta, just as soon as the road is permanently located and graded and the roadbed sufficiently settled to warrant the application of a permanent surface.

COONTZ ATTACKS CRITICS OF NAVY IN FIERY SPEECH

St. Louis, October 28.—(P)—Reference to the criticism of the navy as voiced "by one person in particular," obviously Colonel William Mitchell, was made here last night by Admiral Robert Coontz who commanded the fleet which recently visited Australia.

He addressed the convention of the National Association of Manufacturers, which continued today.

After being out of the United States, he related, "all that time, thinking we have made a great success, we suddenly arrived and began to read all these terrible things about the navy."

"I was just looking up some figures this afternoon. In 20 years we lost 120 men from explosions on board vessels and didn't lose a single ship. One other nation, in the meantime, has lost 2,318 men and of all those I read, every one of them had lost more than we had."

"It is part of our job to go down in submarines, up in airplanes and to try out Shourdak, so that commercial aviation may follow on, as it always will in time. We are going to keep on doing it."

RALSTON'S ESTATE VALUED AT $90,000

Indianapolis, October 28.—(P)—Samuel M. Ralston, late senator from Indiana, left an estate of $90,000. His will, filed for probate today, listed real estate at $75,000 and personal property worth $15,000.

Emmett G. Ralston, son, was named executor and Julian C. another son, was named attorney for the estate.

"Hoosier Home," suburban residence of the senator, a 180-acre farm in Decatur county, and his stock in the First National Bank of Lebanon were willed to his wife. The three children received the remainder of his property.

1 DEAD, 1 INJURED AS PLANT BURNS

Only one death, that of Warren C. Moore, 40, shipping clerk, resulted from destruction by fire of the plant and building of the Atlanta Coca-Cola Bottling company at 400 Edge-wood avenue early Wednesday morning, despite the fact that the family of G. W. Kaylor, numbering three persons, and Thomas C. Smith, assistant shipping clerk, lived in rooms above the plant.

Moore was burned to death in the roaring furnace into which the building was converted by the flames and Smith saved his life by leaping from a second floor window. He was burned about the head and hands and suffered other injuries, but physicians at Grady hospital said Wednesday morning he would recover. The Kaylor family was visiting at Carrollton.

Damage to the plant and building was estimated between $200,000 and $250,000 by L. F. Montgomery, general manager, who said some of the machinery might be salvaged. All units of the plant for bottling soft drinks were damaged and many bottles which had been filled for delivery Wednesday morning were ruined. In addition syrups valued at hundreds of dollars were consumed and five trucks suffered damage.

Origin of Fire Remains Undetermined.

Origin of the fire remains undetermined. Smith, lying on a cot at Grady hospital, told reporters he was awakened by the smell of smoke and fled to the street, and was smoking fiercely when he opened the door to his room. He ran to Moore's room, he said, and, hammering on it, roused Moore, who left the room and disappeared in a sheet of flame.

When Fire Chief W. B. Cody and all downtown fire-fighting forces reached the scene they found Smith clinging to the ledge of a window, but before he could be reached by ladders he fell to the street and was picked up unconscious. He was sent to Grady hospital.

Efforts of fire-fighters were devoted mainly towards saving adjoining buildings, which were beginning to smoke from falling embers. They found Moore's body in the ruins some time afterward, and it was sent to the undertaking parlors of H. M. Patterson & Sons. His father, who lives in Bradenton, Fla., was notified.

Came From Lawrenceville.

Smith, who was injured, had come here recently from Lawrenceville, where he had been in the employ of the Atlanta Coca-Cola company. He has a wife and one son still residing in Lawrenceville. Moore had been employed by the Atlanta firm for 20 years.

Funeral services for Mr. Moore will be held in advance pending arrival of his family and will be at other employees of the Coca-Cola Bottling company, was Moore's only living relative.

Mr. Montgomery said Wednesday there would be only slight interruption in delivery of bottled soft drinks to dealers, and added that plans immediately would be completed for construction of a new building.

Atlanta Tells Of Train Smash In Graphic Story

Memphis, Tenn., October 28.—(Special.)—A. P. Cain, Atlanta, Ga., sales representative of the Buckeye Cotton Oil company, was the first of the Sundayland passengers to leave the train after it was derailed Tuesday at Victoria, Miss.

"I was in the smoker next to the last Pullman when the crash came," Cain said. "There was a terrific impact as the train came to a stop down the embankment, and my car rolled over on its side at an angle of 45 degrees."

"I made my way to the door, and ran toward the forward end of the train, where the worst of the damage had been done. The cries of the injured and dying were the only sounds to be heard after the train came to a stop at the bottom of the hill. One man, who was a passenger in the first Pullman, had been thrown from a window on the underside of the car when it turned over, and pinned beneath the big car against the side of the chair car, which landed beneath the Pullman. There he remained, with only the upper part of his body visible, until the wrecker had been brought and the whole car lifted bodily to allow his body to be removed."

Interracial Leaders OF STATE IN SESSION

Education, justice in the courts, protection from mob violence, courteous public service, and the right racial attitudes, were among subjects discussed at the annual meeting of the Georgia commission on interracial cooperation, held Wednesday morning and afternoon at the Central Y. M. C. A. More than 50 representative men and women were present, most of them from out of town.

Bishop F. P. Reese, of Savannah, occupied the chair, and brief addresses or reports were made by Bishop Reese, Rev. Robert White, of Thomasville; Judge S. E. Adams and Mrs. A. R. Lawton, of Savannah; W. D. Ellis, of LaGrange; H. A. Hunt, of Fort Valley; Dr. Willis King, Walter B. Hill, Miss Rhoda Kaufman, Mrs. W. A. Albright, Rabbi Marx, J. R. Boyd, David Jones, E. Franklin Frazer, Marvin Underwood, and a number of others.

Clark Foreman, executive secretary of the Georgia commission, made a general report of its activities over the state, and reports were heard from Atlanta, Americus, Athens, Augusta, Fort Valley, Macon, Monroe, Savannah, Thomasville and Waycross, relative to the work of local interracial committees in those cities. Efforts in the interest of anti-lynching legislation, better schools, adjustment of interracial difficulties, study of prison conditions and juvenile courts, street improvements, legal aid, and other lines of activity were reported. R. H. Elenzer, educational director of the general commission, told of the fine interest manifested by the press of Georgia, particularly in the anti-lynching campaign.

W. D. Ellis told a story of the "People from Victoria arrived almost immediately and gave first aid to the injured, beginning the task of getting the injured and dead out of the splintered coaches. Those who came first did their work well and a lot of credit is due them for saving the lives of many who might otherwise have been led to death from lack of attention. Later doctors from nearby towns and finally, ambulances and the relief train from Memphis came, and the worst of the suffering was over. It was a horrible disaster but it would have been much worse if the injured had not been given immediate attention."

SIGHTLESS GIRL NAMED IN SUIT AS LOVE PIRATE

Chicago, October 28.—Miss Belle Bay, blind since childhood, was named as a "love pirate" in the divorce trial of William H. Hunt, a radio salesman.

The unusual story was told by Hunt's wife, who said the blind girl had stolen her husband's love. Mrs. Hunt fainted twice while testifying before Judge Joseph Sabath, the famous judge.

"My husband told me a year ago that our marriage could not continue," Mrs. Hunt said. "He was in love with the blind girl and said I would have to leave him. He said he must be free to protect Miss Bay."

"Several days later Miss Bay came to me and said she was the only one who could make William happy. Their love was sacred, she told me."

TENNESSEE CONFERENCE A. M. E. CHURCH OPENS

Nashville, Tenn., October 28.—(Special.) The Tennessee conference of the A. M. E. church convened in Bethel church today, of which Rev. A. E. Fox is pastor, one hundred and ninety-eight pastors and delegates answered the roll call. Bishop Beverly C. Ransom, head of the fourteenth National district, is presiding.

The annual sermon was preached by Rev. R. A. Bailey. Communion was administered by the Rev. C. H. Boone and A. P. Gray, assisted by Drs. W. A. Smith and J. C. Caldwell, prominent members of the conference.

The organization was entered into by electing the Rev. F. D. Coleman, W. A. Anderson and C. H. Crawford secretaries. The committees were announced, as follows: On the state of the church, moral worth of the people, state of the church, education, money and finance.

A heated discussion was entered into, because Rev. M. E. Jackson was not a member of the annual conference because the bishop said he did not properly receive his appointment last year but threw it back into his face, and that he (the bishop) would not allow him to appear on the finance committee or any other committee of the conference, which was transferred from the A. M. E. church, which was detrimental to the entire membership.

Secretary-Treasurer Ira T. Bryant, head of the A. M. E. church, asked the conference presbytery, delegates, visitors and entire audience to have lunch at his department and also asked Bishop Ransom, presiding elders and visitors to dedicate the old superannuated ministers' home, which had been erected for the good of the A. M. E. denomination in the United States, Africa and the Isles of the sea. This whole service looks forward to the public service, which takes place Thursday afternoon.

Bishop Ransom will make the principal address, assisted by other bishops, general officers and leading ministers from the entire connection. The singing and short talks will be features.

Driving Hate Out Of the Hearts of Europe

IN THE EARLY EVENING of Friday, October 16, two men, one long-haired and brigandish in appearance, the other plump and bald, appeared, arm in arm and smiling, at a brightly lighted window of the court-house of the little red-roofed Swiss town of Locarno and bowed to a waiting crowd outside that burst into cheers at their appearance. Another waved from the window a paper tied with ribbon, and the cheers were redoubled. At the same time fireworks blazed against the darkening sky and the encircling mountains, and shot their many-colored reflections across the waters of Lake Maggiore. The two men were Aristide Briand, Foreign Minister of France, and Hans Luther, Chancellor of the German Republic; and the paper was the just signed security pact which was destined to be one of the most famous documents of history.

THIS MOMENTARY picture, sketched in the dispatches of the correspondents, in a sense symbolizes the results of the Locarno Conference—results which mark, in the opinion of many observers, the dawn of a new era of peace and good-will in Europe. France and Belgium and Germany, the ancient enemies, have promised, in effect, never to fight again. And as an earnest of good faith they have signed five treaties and have agreed that between them shall stand a demilitarized zone along the Rhine which neither will ever cross to attack the other.

Every phase of this momentous meeting which may mean the founding of the United States of Europe, is reported in "The Literary Digest," this week's issue, dated October 31. The article is illustrated with maps and half-tone reproductions.

The Fight Over the "Little Fellows" Income Tax

THE CHIEF BATTLE over the new tax-reduction bill "will be on the matter of taxes to be collected next year from workers who receive less than $5,000 a year," reports one observer in Washington. Press correspondents tell us that the Democratic leaders in Congress are going to make the elimination of taxes on incomes under $5,000 one of the chief issues in the next Congressional elections. The fighting Texas Democrat who is responsible for the "Garner plan" of two years ago will lead his fellows, according to a Washington dispatch to the Springfield Union, in attracting the enthusiasm of "the little fellow" and charging that the Republicans are interested only in "the big fellow." The New York Herald Tribune's correspondent learns that the Democrats are hoping with such an issue to win a smashing victory in the 1926 Congressional elections, and to defeat President Coolidge for reelection in 1928. Mr. Garner would raise the present exemptions to $5,000 for married men and $3,500 for single men. Other Democrats and prominent Republicans like Senators Couzens and Capper are inclined to agree with the Texan, and one of the Washington Star's political writers concludes that "the liberal wing of the Republicans in Congress is liable to look very favorably upon the $5,000 exemption opposed by Secretary Mellon.

The subject is fully covered in this week's "Digest."

WHEREIN IT FAILS
Prominent white republicans, gathered in Birmingham at a Roosevelt dinner, launched a movement to make the republican party a political force in the south.

It is not the first time such a movement has been begun. And every movement of the kind has failed.

Failure has not been due to any lack of common-sense appeal in the general proposal.

The unselfish democratic thought of the south indeed advocates and welcomes straight-to-the-shoulder contests on party principles in lieu of the purely personal contests that overwhelm one-party dominancy invites and fosters.

Failures have been produced by the manners and methods of the organizations in the south promoted by the republicans.

There is nothing in the platform of the republican party that injects the racial issue into the premises. And yet every movement to build up in the southern states strong republican voting strength based upon the tenets of faith promulgated by that party has been wrecked on that one issue. And such wreckage will be heaped upon wreckage so long as that issue is allowed to get a foothold.

The white republicans of Georgia who have placed party above selfish patronage designs have had crucifying experiences along this line. President Harding had the vision of a white republican party in Georgia. He attempted to execute a plan. It was crucified on the racial altar.

A negro national committee has now been chosen to succeed the negro national committee who died.

The republican national committee was responsible for Lincoln Johnson at Chicago in 1920 and again at Cleveland in 1924.

However earnestly, therefore, the white republicans of the south who are not patronage jugglers may seek to build a southern wing based upon principles as enunciated in the party's code of faith it can never do so unless the national committee will show sufficient cooperation to keep the race issue out of it.

At the Birmingham dinner a letter was read from Elihu Root, in which he said:

"I do not look at this meeting primarily as important to the republican party, but rather as important to the south. The south needs two parties. It is a vital thing for a free community to have the kind of discussion of principle and policy which arises in contests between two great parties. That is the necessary process of education through which the people of free communities grow more competent to govern as fast as government becomes more difficult because more complicated."

Precisely so. It reads like a paragraph from many an editorial on the subject from The Constitution, a democratic newspaper.

It would be better for the south, regardless of which of the major parties holds the reins of administration, if our political contests were waged on outstanding national and international policies of government, rather than upon personalities which are unavoidable in a primary contest between candidates of the same party faith. In the event of a republican administration the south would fare infinitely better, with its cabinet, diplomatic bureau and other important representations. Patronage would be relieved of its present embarrassing and stultifying aspect which impairs efficiency.

In the event of a democratic administration where a party victory in a great section must come from a party fight on policies of government the south would fare better not only in representations but in those principles that affect its economic welfare.

There is, perhaps, not a sounder thinker in America than the New York veteran who has served his nation in so many positions of great trust and responsibility, but the ideals he pictures, welcome to every outstanding, unselfish democrat in the south, can never be realized until the republican leaders out of the south adopt a different policy with regard to the party in the south.

THE UNICOI ROAD.

A large delegation of citizens from northeast Georgia appeared before the state highway commission recently and asked that the road across the Blue Ridge mountains from Helen, in White county, to Hiawassee, in Towns county, be incorporated in the state system.

Under the recent law approximately 800 miles of roads in the entire state may be added. There are in all sections many important connecting links that bring trunk lines together, or make them accessible to sections that are otherwise cut off. It will possibly be some months before the state board can formulate its schedule of additions as, very wisely, it is giving careful hearings to all such appeals.

The Unicoi road, in mileage, is a mere drop in the bucket. It is approximately 25 miles. But there is not a road in Georgia that can present any greater or more pressing needs for being in the state system. The fact is, it is the neck to a bottle. It is the only road, without looping an elbow, that gives the people of the Hiawassee valley on the north of the mountain an outlet to the south, or the people of the Nacoochee-Sautee valleys an outlet to the north.

And it is a great deal more, for on the south it connects with the Appalachian scenic highway and other trunk lines via Cleveland and Gainesville, and on the north it connects with the Blue Ridge-Clayton state highway, which traverses most of the state east and west, and also with the interstate highways into North Carolina, already permanently paved north and west of the state line. It is, therefore, a strategic road of unusual importance besides giving ingress and egress to a large number of Georgians who are otherwise "bottled up."

Both Towns and White counties have done a great deal of work on this road in the past few months. Towns county even allocated a large sum from its gas-tax allotment to work on this road in another county, so important and necessary is it to the people of that county.

There are no railroads in this section of Georgia, hence the highway appeal is unusually strong. By all means the state board should place the little Unicoi link, that will make several trunk lines so much more serviceable, in the state system.

THE GRAND'S ANNIVERSARY

This week marks the ninth anniversary of the operation of Loew's Grand theater in Atlanta under its present management. A birthday celebration is in progress which brings to light Atlanta's leadership in amusement development in the south.

Just nine years ago Loew's Grand theater was established as the first southern unit of the chain of theaters which later has grown to be the largest in the world. The success or failure of the theater in Atlanta was to spell the fate of the subsequent development, and the marvelous success of this theater here soon led to an expansion which now includes nearly all the large cities of the south and which has already brought investments to the south aggregating many millions of dollars.

Since its establishment in Atlanta Loew's Grand has formed one of the foremost amusement institutions here, and along with many other enterprises of the same order has brought this city to the forefront in amusements in the southeast.

The anniversary celebration is significant of success already won and of further success and expansion assured for the future.

The Loew organization and Manager Thomas H. James, of the Grand, are entitled to hearty congratulations.

Just From Georgia

When the Nag Goes Lane.
(From "Star Dust," by Will D. Muse, Atlanta.)

A little bit o' sunshine and a little bit o' shade.
A little bit o' puffin' on the up-hill grade.
A little bit o' noddin' in the things that can't be cured.
And a little bit o' noddin' in the things that can be cured.

For days are ne'er so gloomy but they might be worse.
And you needn't start to crying 'till you see the hearse.

A little bit o' playin' as you plod along.
A little bit o' prayin'—a little snatch o' song.
A little bit o' hordin' up a kind o' claim.
A little bit o' smilin' when the nag goes lame.

For many a happy couple ne'er rode a one-horse team.
But walked the road together on their wedding day.
A little bit o' sandin' on a long, slick track.
A little bit o' backhane up and down your back.

A little bit o' welcome and your door flung wide.
To make your neighbor happy if you just half tried.
For the day is mighty fleeting and your stay is brief.
And the Devil keeps a grinnin' at your unbelief.

Literary Note.
The good short story, says a literary correspondent, is hard to write. It is really nothing more than a series of short stories, linked together. It is easier to market ordinary novel than it is to place a short story. The latter, to get by, must show snap and ginger from first to last. One writer wrote me: "A three-line story frequently says more than a three-column sermon."

"We never hear," says the Home Town Philosopher, "of the out of the woods, and some of us never get out until some one sets fire to the woods."

The Flower Bids My Door.
Sweet flower, the winter's chill is near.
So soon thy bloom shall disappear.
From my cottage door.
So soon shall life thy beautiful form
Upon the ground cold, dead,
Unmindful of the angry storm
That sweeps thy earthly bed.

When nature other springs impart
And other blooms come on.
I'll think of those who cheered my heart
In happy days long gone.

And in my joyous hours the while
I'll dream of some unseen power
Hath bid thy charms again to smile
Within each new-born flower.

Curtis Co. Offers
$250,000 To Send
Boys to College

To help develop leadership for the future among grammar school boys of today, the Curtis Publishing company, of Philadelphia, has offered $250,000 to be loaned to boys who desire to attend college.

To any boy who qualifies under the terms of this college loan plan, the Curtis Publishing company will loan needed amounts up to $1,500 in the total of $250,000 is outstanding.

The security for each loan will be the boy's character as developed in his home, in his school and his work in delivering the Curtis publications.

The plan has been perfected with the advice and counsel of more than 50 of the country's leading educators and business men. It has their unanimous approval on the ground that American business needs better trained executives and is finding it increasingly difficult to obtain them.

Hapsburg Women.
The tragedy that stalks the ill-starred house of Hapsburg seems to reach its climax in the case of its women. Empress Zita, wife of Karl I, the last emperor of Austria, is the last of a royal princess living with her eight children on the charity of her kinsman Alfonso of Spain. But the most pathetic of them all is Charlotte, former empress of Mexico, a frail, demented old woman, who lives in a little chateau a few hours from Brussels. She left Mexico to plead with Napoleon III to help her husband, Napoleon, who had deserted Maximilian, emperor of Mexico, and had withdrawn the French troops, but died of her pining to her husband's cries echoed through the corridors of Europe's chancelleries. Nowhere did she receive help. Knowing the great danger in which her husband moved in Mexico, she became desperate and last her reason before the news of Maximilian's execution reached Europe. Ever since that day she has waited quietly for her husband's return. The reports that she is a raving maniac are erroneous. This frail beauty is quiet and sedate woman, who strolls around in her garden at Bouhot, happy and contented apparently. It's only when one of her periodic hallucinations seize her that she clamors and weeps for her Maximilian.

Soviet Marriages.
The soviet government has authorized marriages on a three-year probation basis, according to the Berlin Lokal Anzeiger. After the lapse of three years both parties will have to continue to the experiment and enter a new and permanently binding contract, that is if the bond has proved mutually satisfactory. Otherwise, each party will be at liberty to separate without going through any of the usual divorce formalities. The law was passed, says the Anzeiger, to clarify the state of matrimonial confusion existing in Russia. All that is necessary for such a probationary marriage is a registration of the betrothing parties at the city clerk's office. If the marriage fails the clerk will simply draw a blue pencil mark through both names, whereby the

Looks back to see her lover's face.
Outgrow the charm of Halloween?
The least, the dullest, the rites, I ween,
Will last as long as Youth has breath,
And Love the Witch, has cunning art!

UNCHARTED.
I.
There is a shore, I say not where,
So music fills the evening air.
The lapping tide breaks on the sand
Near fond young lovers, hand in hand.

II.
A gleam I know, without a name,
Where forest flowers bloom all aflame.
The bright-eyed deer come unafraid
To rest in that fair hidden glade.

III.
Deep in a heart I see not where—
An image dwells, its beauty where
And grows more dear as days unfold,
New likeness to that love untold.

LIGHTS OF NEW YORK

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN
New York, October 28.—New York, like Paris and Berlin, has a dog cemetery and the little gravesites bear inscriptions that will make you alternately smile and feel smitten with grief. So if you see "Dearest Mitzel, from Heart-Broken Mamma" on the little marble piece of sculpture, you can picture Mitzel still in the land of living, eating chocolate, and snuggling on a silk cushion in the tannery of a limousine and never knowing the joy of chasing a flea down his pampered back. But when you read about "Harold, who Saved Three Lives From the East River," you have to do with a hero type of the species that was man's inseparable companion and friend since the dawn of civilization.

At a large dog hospital, where 40 or 50 wounded and sick canine individuals are daily receiving the doctor in their way, the doctor is a kindly middle-aged lady, with gold-rimmed spectacles, who examines the patients when they enter. She pries open jaws throbbing with the toothache and never gets a bite; she examines broken paws and speaks a cheerful word; she patches up sore ears and sends their proprietors for having gotten them in such a terrible fix.

Next to the reception room is a sort of distribution station where mutts, mongrels, high-breds and low-breds must wait until they are distributed to the different wards and clinics. Sometimes the noise of barking, whelping and howling becomes so terrific that it sounds as if the dog world had come to an end. The lady doctor at such times sticks her head through the door and remarks in an authoritative voice: "See here, I have had enough of that now!" Strange to say there is immediate silence, but only for a few minutes, before pandemonium breaks loose again.

No dog is refused admission. Race or creed makes no difference in this hospital. And pedigree is forgotten. It is a canine democracy and the limousine Pekinese who has the hiccoughs from eating caramels is soon cured for the first time in his life, he makes the acquaintance of other boys and girls, though perhaps of lesser breed.

Not long ago I witnessed such a spectacle and was not a little pleased when a man with spats and silver-topped cane stepped out of the crowd, grabbed hold of the unmerciful and hairy driver, and proceeded to give the man a thrashing. A policeman, who came along later, added a few more to the thrashing when he was informed of the situation.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN
Amsterdam.
Amsterdam, the capital of Holland, parent city of New York, is 350 years old. Though an important city; commercially speaking, it has a close rival in Rotterdam, yet it retains the leading position as Holland's great port and a center of commerce. Amsterdam, unlike Rotterdam, Antwerp or Hamburg, has never quite become a city of modernized industry and commerce. It has retained an unusual staidness and dignity. There are few streets in the world so imposing and dignified as the Herengracht, where the aristocratic burghers and East India company merchants once lived and where the facades have not changed during the last 300 years. For Amsterdam was once practically the sole possessor of a huge empire in the Indies. That was the time the merchants had their own armies and their own fleet. Its history is comparable to that of the republic of Venice and strange enough her civic outlay with canals running in all directions made the two cities resemble even in physical appearance until a quarter century ago when the canals of Amsterdam were gradually filled and changed into streets. At a center of learning and commerce, Amsterdam has few rivals even in Holland. There are two universities, six museums, several art schools, an opera, a musical circle with such leaders as Mendelsohn and Van Hoogstraaten, a virile native literature and a theater that was made famous by the genius of Louis Bouwmeester. There is not the rush and roar of New York and other American cities, life in Amsterdam has not suffered on account of European war, it is serene and quiet in it; it lends itself to contemplation and philosophy, and the good tobacco and cigars one buys there aid not a little to make life fuller and more beautiful.

Hapsburg Women.
The tragedy that stalks the ill-starred house of Hapsburg seems to reach its climax in the case of its women. Empress Zita, wife of Karl I, the last emperor of Austria, is the last of a royal princess living with her eight children on the charity of her kinsman Alfonso of Spain. But the most pathetic of them all is Charlotte, former empress of Mexico, a frail, demented old woman, who lives in a little chateau a few hours from Brussels. She left Mexico to plead with Napoleon III to help her husband, Napoleon, who had deserted Maximilian, emperor of Mexico, and had withdrawn the French troops, but died of her pining to her husband's cries echoed through the corridors of Europe's chancelleries. Nowhere did she receive help. Knowing the great danger in which her husband moved in Mexico, she became desperate and last her reason before the news of Maximilian's execution reached Europe. Ever since that day she has waited quietly for her husband's return. The reports that she is a raving maniac are erroneous. This frail beauty is quiet and sedate woman, who strolls around in her garden at Bouhot, happy and contented apparently. It's only when one of her periodic hallucinations seize her that she clamors and weeps for her Maximilian.

Soviet Marriages.
The soviet government has authorized marriages on a three-year probation basis, according to the Berlin Lokal Anzeiger. After the lapse of three years both parties will have to continue to the experiment and enter a new and permanently binding contract, that is if the bond has proved mutually satisfactory. Otherwise, each party will be at liberty to separate without going through any of the usual divorce formalities. The law was passed, says the Anzeiger, to clarify the state of matrimonial confusion existing in Russia. All that is necessary for such a probationary marriage is a registration of the betrothing parties at the city clerk's office. If the marriage fails the clerk will simply draw a blue pencil mark through both names, whereby the marriage will appear as never having existed. Raoul Tribaud, who was recently in Russia for Le Journal de Paris, made the acquaintance of a soviet woman, secret service agent who declared quite frankly that she had been married and divorced several times in the last three years. That record beats even Hollywood.

The Dragon's Tail.
The fair has opened at Mons and the people of the French countryside are swarming to the city to see the smart, the jostling, and if any irritation remains, it is some cold cream. The main drawback about a chemical shave is that it tends to irritate the skin, and it is not a pleasant thing to have the epilating wax which is sold in the drug stores and which yank out a number of hairs at once. It is an individual's choice whether to use the epilating wax or not, but you know how you feel about losing them.

The Chemical Shave.
Numerous depilatory powders, pastes, salves or liquids purport to "destroy" superfluous hair, to "end it forever." The idea is to remove the hair from the surface and have no effect whatever on the follicles or roots, so that they merely grow back again. This is a false promise. A type of chemical depilatory is a mixture of powdered barium sulphide, two drams or ounces, with zinc oxide, three drams or ounces, and a little water. To take a chemical shave add to some of this enough water to make a soft paste and apply it to the hair. Leave it on for about five minutes or until it begins to smart, then just wash up, and if any irritation remains, use some cold cream. The main drawback about a chemical shave is that it tends to irritate the skin, and it is not a pleasant thing to have the epilating wax which is sold in the drug stores and which yank out a number of hairs at once. It is an individual's choice whether to use the epilating wax or not, but you know how you feel about losing them.

The Mechanical Shave.
The use of the razor for the removal of hair is rather less likely to irritate the skin than the chemical depilatories and it probably does stimulate heavier growth of the hairs shaved to a greater extent than the mechanical shave. A type of mechanical depilatory is a mixture of powdered barium sulphide, two drams or ounces, with zinc oxide, three drams or ounces, and a little water. To take a chemical shave add to some of this enough water to make a soft paste and apply it to the hair. Leave it on for about five minutes or until it begins to smart, then just wash up, and if any irritation remains, use some cold cream. The main drawback about a chemical shave is that it tends to irritate the skin, and it is not a pleasant thing to have the epilating wax which is sold in the drug stores and which yank out a number of hairs at once. It is an individual's choice whether to use the epilating wax or not, but you know how you feel about losing them.

CHINAMAN FIGHTS EFFORT TO SEND HIM FROM COUNTRY
Petition for a writ of habeas corpus in an effort to gain his freedom after having been rearrested on a warrant for deportation as he left the Atlanta penitentiary was filed Wednesday by Harry Chin, Chinaman, who is being detained by M. A. Cocke, immigration officer.

Chin was arrested by Mr. Cocke, immigration officer, on the expiration of a two-year term in the federal prison on October 7. The petition said he arrived in the United States in 1891 and was in a merchandise business in New York, and was indicted jointly with Leon Chin, Wong and Men Long. All three are charged with violating the Harrison narcotic act and the others with various violations of the act.

The warrant to deport is based on count 14 of the indictment, but Chin did not plead guilty to the 14th count and has not been convicted, the petition says. A hearing on the petition has been set for Saturday in federal court. Frank A. Daughman is attorney for Chin.

CHILDREN URGED TO AVOID DAMAGE HALLOWEEN NIGHT
School children of Atlanta are urged to conduct themselves in orderly manner on Halloween night and refrain from destroying property and not to commit any depredations, in a letter sent them Wednesday by Willis A. Sumner, superintendent of schools.

In his letter the superintendent urged the children to enjoy themselves, but asked them to repeat their record of last year when they declined to take part in pranks which resulted in property damage.

NEGRO WHO ESCAPED MAY LOSE FIVE YEARS
Violation of the "good behavior" law of prison camps will cost Carl Lett, negro, who escaped Tuesday night from the West Side penitentiary, five additional years if he is recaptured.

Although he had but four months remaining before he would have completed a seven-year sentence imposed on a charge of stealing a mule, the negro, who had been made a "trusty," walked away from the camp.

CLERKS ELECT OFFICERS.
The election of Robert F. Anderson, of the Atlanta hotel, and L. P. Rinsington, of the Aragon hotel, as first and second vice presidents of the Atlanta Hotel Clerks' association, was the feature of a 11 o'clock election Wednesday at the Biltmore hotel. Plans for a fancy dress ball Friday on the Ansley hotel roof were completed.

Mrs. Venable is survived by her husband; her mother, Mrs. J. R. Frank; her sisters, Mrs. M. E. Frank, Mrs. Bernard Wilson, Mrs. John W. Herman, and a brother, Vernon Frank.

HEALTH TALKS
BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
THE REMOVAL OF SUPERFLUOUS HAIR.
Given a young beard where no beard ought to be, and a woman who cannot have the superfluous hair safely destroyed by electrolysis or by X-ray treatment, of course in the hands of a qualified physician or surgeon, the alternative is to begin shaving and this immediately brings up the question of the kind of shave to be preferred. There are four kinds of shave which a woman may employ, each having its particular drawbacks and advantages. But before we go on shaving, perhaps it will be well to dispose of the oversupply of peroxide and ammonia.

A preliminary bathing of the whiskers or superfluous hairs in diluted ammonia water (say a tablespoonful of ordinary ammonia water in a cupful of tepid water), and then after 5 or 10 minutes of this, apply hydrogen peroxide for five minutes. The peroxide, too, should be diluted with about its own volume of water if it is fresh and strong. This bleaches the hairs and so makes them less conspicuous. Perhaps its frequent or constant use also tends to retard the growth of the superfluous hairs. But only the very best beauty woman would have the unsophisticated woman imagine that ammonia and peroxide will destroy superfluous hair.

The Caveman Shave.
Probably the first shave was a pumice stone shave. Some mighty nice looking women prefer this kind of shave. The hairs are first trimmed with scissors, then the hairy area is gently rubbed with a brick or block of fine toilet pumice stone; if only light fuzz is to be removed the pumice stone may be used without first cutting the hairs short. Some women prefer to rub the first; others prefer a straight edge shave. In any case the rubbing must be gentle and prolonged—it may take 20 minutes or more to remove a heavy growth of hair with pumice. If used, the skin may be kept clean and free of the rubbing without irritation. If any irritation follows a caveman shave, an application of fresh cold cream or other bland ointment will remove it. Some women declare that after a year or so of caveman shaving they find the hairs become softer and not so dark in color.

This is probably the second discovery in the treatment of hypertrichosis. The American Indians kept the hairs pulled out by an over-heavy loaded cart or wagon, his hoofs scraping vainly on the pavement, while the driver lashes him with his whip or jerks on the bit. If an agent of this humane society spots such a case, it goes hard with the driver. But as a rule passersby interfere.

Not long ago I witnessed such a spectacle and was not a little pleased when a man with spats and silver-topped cane stepped out of the crowd, grabbed hold of the unmerciful and hairy driver, and proceeded to give the man a thrashing. Southern Republican League Plans To Inject New Life Into Dixie Political Affairs

G. O. P. Expect to "Bring About Real Two-Party Rule" by Appeal to "Thinking People."

Birmingham, Ala., October 28.—(By the Associated Press.)—The Southern States Republican league today pledged itself to revitalize political conditions in the 17 states which embrace its membership.

The league expects to "bring about real, two-party government" by presenting party principles in such manner as to appeal to "the thinking people" of the section.

The league opened the way for the nomination of republican candidates in every congressional district in the south and went on record as opposing party caucuses, "for any other method of party activity which does not provide for full and free expression of party will."

G. O. P. Session Closes.

The sessions of the league convention ended tonight with a public meeting, at which it was shown, in an address by Congressman Albert W. Jeffries, Nebraska, the relation of the league to the republican party.

Congressman Jeffries spoke on "The Policies of the Republican Party," outlining the program of activity by which the party works and explaining the ideals and purposes of the body as a political force.

Continuing its drive to establish a real republican party in the south, the

Steamer Captain Denies Any Fault In Ramming S-51

Boston, October 28.—(AP)—Vigorous denial that he had disobeyed any of the laws of the road was made today by Captain John H. Diehl, master of the steamer City of Rome, testifying before the navy board of inquiry, investigating the collision on September 25 in which the submarine S-51 was sunk.

Captain Diehl told of seeing a white light for some time before the collision and suddenly a red one which caused him to reverse his engines, blow his whistle and swing to port just before the crash. Thirty-three men went down with the submarine when she sank off Block Island.

The submarine was at fault, Captain Diehl contended, and he was not at fault. He had shown a red light at the time as he should, there would not have been any collision.

Members of the board of inquiry developed in redirect examination of Captain Diehl that he passed 16 or 17 minutes on the port side of the pilot house, where he did not see the white light on his starboard, and returned to the starboard only a few minutes before the collision.

Captain Diehl maintained throughout that in rescue work and after the accident he had done everything possible to save life and that he would act similarly if so placed again.

Earlier in the day Eling Knudsen, Norwegian sailor, had testified along lines previously developed. Two other members of the City of Rome's crew, William A. Adamson, who was on lookout at the time of the collision, and Carl Hanson, quartermaster, were called. Hanson also repeated much of the testimony previously given. Adamson told of seeing the white light, of failing to see the submarine's hull, of the flashing of the red light, and the steamer's whistles just before the collision.

When the officers learned his slight they took him to the station house and fed him. He told police he was a sailor on the freight ship Louisiana, but left at Jacksonville to get a job in this country. He could make his fortune quick.

Sympathetic officers gave him a place to sleep for the night and promised to help him along.

SUBMERGED CITY REPORTED FOUND IN CASPIAN SEA

Moscow, October 28.—(AP)—The discovery of an ancient submerged city near Shikof, a sandy bank on the Caspian sea, was reported today by Alexey Atayeff, a captain in the mercantile fleet. Atayeff's ship, bound from Persia to Baku, accidentally changed her usual course and while soundings were being made he noticed buildings on the sea floor. Atayeff asserts that under the bright sun he was enabled to distinguish streets and buildings of ancient Asiatic architecture.

Archaeologists are of the opinion that the discovery reveals the lost city of Kharadashger, which is believed to have been submerged centuries ago by an earthquake that altered the whole coast line.

TROOPS OF GREECE LEAVE BULGARIA

Athens, October 28.—Greek troops are retiring from Bulgaria after a flurry of fighting which the Greeks threatened to utilize as grounds for flouting the League of Nations' demand for peace in the Balkans.

Bulgarian troops are alleged by the Greek general staff to have attacked the left flank of the retiring Greek army which might near an outpost between Petritsi and Remma and to have continued the attack until Wednesday morning. Greeks immediately suspended the order for retirement.

A Greek protest was dispatched to Aristide Briand, president of the League of Nations, asserting that Bulgaria had violated the council's orders.

Greek troops were ordered to resist the attack which is alleged to have been instigated by members of the Macedonian committee, who had determined not to conform to the council's will.

Two Greek soldiers were killed. While the attack continued on the left flank, the Bulgarians are said to have been sighted recommitting the right.

When the fighting ceased Greece renewed the order to withdraw and the rearward movement is under way in conformity with the council's demand that all troops be withdrawn behind their own frontiers within 48 hours of the council's first meeting in Paris Monday evening.

LEAGUE IS SHOCKED BY ALLEGED ATTACK.

Paris, October 28.—With the dramatic impact of the wholly unexpected, a telegram arrived Wednesday for the League of Nations council, announcing that Bulgarian troops had attacked the Greeks as they were retiring from Bulgarian territory.

Constantinople swept the temporary league secretariat at the Quai d'Orsay and rapidly spread to members of the council as President Briand informed them of the telegram from the Greek foreign minister.

If the Greek charges are verified, Bulgaria would be liable to serious punishment, it is said at the secretariat. Council members were not willing to discuss the nature of such punishment until it was indicated that the charge of Bulgarian aggression were substantiated. Bulgaria might be expelled from the League of Nations, it was said, and occupy the border territory while Greek troops withdrew.

M. Maroff, the Bulgarian representative before the league council, said he did not believe the Greek charges were based on fact.

The deadline for complete evacuation of all occupied territory expires at 8 a. m. Friday. The council will meet at 11 o'clock, when it is hoped that a full report of the latest disturbances will have been received from the council's representatives at the frontier.

GREEKS ATTACK BULGARIAN POST.

Sofia, October 28.—Greek troops attacked a Bulgarian post early Wednesday, according to reports from the front. The attack, maintained with rifle fire, continued for five hours.

The foreign office explains the shelling of the Christian quarter of the city October 18-20 as a necessity to prevent mobs of Arabs, Druses and communists from capturing the citadel where 1,000 troops could have been trapped, leaving the city defenseless.

Relations between the Moslems and Christians are excellent. There have been no Christian casualties.

DRUSE TRIBESMEN CUT OFF FRENCH TROOPS.

London, October 28.—A French column which left Mous Soffra a few days ago has been cut off by Druse tribesmen, according to Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Baghdad. The Beirut-Damascus railway has been cut in several places and the inhabitants of several villages near Damascus have joined the Druses against the French, the Arabs report.

FRESH TROOPS SENT TO REINFORCE FORCES.

Paris, October 28.—Ten thousand fresh troops have been sent to reinforce the 10,000 already in Syria, the foreign office announces. Other operations in the area have been suspended to permit concentrations of troops for the defense of Damascus.

PROTECTION OF U.S. CITIZENS IS ASKED FOR WORLD PEACE

Washington, October 28.—The United States has called upon the French foreign office to provide protection for American lives and property in Damascus.

The state department has sent a message to the American representatives in Paris directing that they open conversations with the foreign office, it was admitted here Wednesday night.

The action of the state department, it was said unofficially, is not to be construed in the light of a note of protest to the French government.

The state department officials declined to comment on the government's action beyond admitting that the American embassy had been cabled.

A number of Americans in Damascus are reported to have been endangered by the bombardment.

MORE BODIES BELIEVED BURIED IN DAMASCUS.

Jerusalem, October 28.—Enormous numbers of bodies are believed still to be buried beneath the ruins of Damascus. Jamal Husheini, secretary of Palestine Arab congress, said Wednesday, but he stated there was no means of establishing how many had been killed during the rioting and French bombardment of the city.

"The situation is critical," he said. "The British consul has ordered his nationals to leave Damascus."

"Winter is setting in and the condition of the homeless inhabitants is most pitiful. The French are forcing back fugitives who endeavor to leave the city."

"Many young men of Damascus, their occupations now closed to them, are joining the guerrillas or the rebellious Druses."

"Relations between the Moslems and Christians are excellent. There have been no Christian casualties."

DRUSE TRIBESMEN CUT OFF FRENCH TROOPS.

London, October 28.—A French column which left Mous Soffra a few days ago has been cut off by Druse tribesmen, according to Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Baghdad. The Beirut-Damascus railway has been cut in several places and the inhabitants of several villages near Damascus have joined the Druses against the French, the Arabs report.

COOLIDGE APPEALS FOR WORLD PEACE

Washington, October 28.—President Coolidge renewed his plea for world peace through disarmament and arbitration Wednesday in accepting on behalf of the United States an equestrian statue of General Jose De San Martin, the gift of the people of Argentina.

Urging a text from the example of South American republics, the president declared that other nations might well study the spirit which has kept the countries of that continent at peace with the world.

"Whoever has given even a casual consideration to the past century's evolution of international relationships in that continent," Mr. Coolidge said, "must recognize that not only in its aspirations but in its practical working processes for dealing with difficult issues between nations have steadily tended toward the insuring of peace. They have looked to the substitution of reason for force."

Statue Presented.

President Coolidge's address of acceptance followed formal presentation and unveiling of the statue by the Argentine patriot by the ambassador from Argentina, Honorio Pueyrredon. The statue, which was paid for through popular subscription in the South American republic, and was given to the people of the United States in return for a statue of George Washington, which American residents of Buenos Aires caused to be erected in that city, stands in Judiciary park, between the pension building and the district courthouse.

Elaborate ceremonies marked the unveiling of the huge bronze figure. A notable gathering of diplomats and government officials were gathered to witness the services.

Reviews Life of San Martin.

President Coolidge, drawing tighter the bonds of friendship between the United States and the South American states, reviewed the life of San Martin, comparing the brilliancy of the Argentine's feat of crossing the Andes to aid in the liberation of Chile and Peru, with the military strategy of George Washington at Trenton and Princeton.

Mr. Coolidge paid high tribute to the contribution of South American republics to the cause of world peace, holding up their example as a model for other nations.

"The history of the relationships among the nations of the new world," he said, "has been a continuing story of effort to substitute the rule of arbitration, of mediation, of adjudication, and confidence for the rule of force and war."

FRESHMEN SCORE ON JACKETS WITH FORWARD PASSES

First Varsity Gets Burden Of Work in Long Scrimmage; Tharpe Spills Rat Passers

BY GEORGE CONGDON.

Tech's first varsity, with the exception of Captain Wycoff and Six Carpenter, sure casuals as far as the Notre Dame fracas Saturday is concerned, caught plenty of work at Grant field Wednesday afternoon in a scrimmage against the freshmen who flipped forward passes down the field like the old four horsemen.

Tiny Hearn at tackle and Dick Wright at left halfback, filled the gaps in the regular first varsity lineup. Wright was a consistent ground gainer against the freshmen, but they had little luck in shooting down the aerial stuff that put a touchdown over for the rats.

Don Miller is in his own stride now. He has the Notre Dame stuff of this season to drill into the freshmen skulls as well as portions of the Irish ground-gaining dope that he has already shot into the rats. Passes and long passes were put over the varsity with surprising consistency.

One of the bright lights in the varsity's version of the scrimmage was Mack Tharpe, regular first-string tackle, who dived through the freshman line frequently to throw backs for losses. He also got through in time twice to pin down a pass flinger before he had a chance to turn loose.

KREUSE OUT MRS. REYMOND OF ILL-PENN CONTEST WINS FROM MRS. GAUT

New York, October 28.—(AP)—Hopes of friends of Red Grange and Illinois for victory in their first eastern appearance on Saturday scored today with announcement that Pennsylvania's foremost backfield star probably will be out of the lineup.

Failure of Al Kreuse, triple-threat ace, to appear for practice yesterday marked the second blow in as many days given Pennsylvania. Pastefish was eliminated by injuries Monday and, although it was believed at that time that Kreuse would be able to play Saturday with the aid of a brace, his leg yesterday was swollen to twice its normal size.

Howard Long, star pitcher of the baseball team, has taken Kreuse's place. Leith, Wascosino and Douglass will complete the backfield, while the line will be the same as that which faced Chicago.

Today's drill closed Army's stiff workouts for the Yale struggle at New Haven.

Dartmouth, high-scoring team of the east and undefeated a year ago, looks upon the Brown game largely as an opportunity to surpass the 9-0 victory of Pennsylvania.

Indications are that Columbia will be able to send its strongest team against unbeaten Cornell at the Polo grounds.

Princeton players were in fine fettle today and Coach Roper expects his team to come back against Swarthmore. Harvard will spend the rest of the week in vigorous preparation for William and Mary.

For the first time this season Penn State will use the same starting lineup for two straight games. Coach Beedek will make no changes for the Syracuse game.

Edward Chipman, injured Colgate guard, has accepted an invitation to fill the pulpit of the Methodist church at Hamilton, N. Y., while his teammates are playing the Aggies at Lansing, Mich., on Saturday.

The Navy leaves Annapolis for Ann Arbor tomorrow where it will play Michigan Saturday.

IRISH LEAVE TODAY FOR ATLANTA

South Bend, Ind., October 28.—Heavy snow kept the Notre Dame team indoors today, which means that the squad will leave tomorrow for Atlanta for the Georgia Tech game next Saturday with practically only one day's workout since the Minnesota game.

Several of the Notre Dame regulars are rather battered from the two stiff scrimmages with the Cadets and Gophers, but there are few injuries serious enough to keep the men out of the game Saturday if the need for them arises.

The change of climate from the winter weather that has prevailed here this week is going to be much more severe than was anticipated for this early and may play havoc with the team.

Hagen Hoping for Jones Match

Chicago, October 28.—(AP)—Walter Hagen, professional golfer, today announced he would be unable to compete in the Los Angeles open tournament in January, but that arrangements would soon be made, he hoped, for a 72-hole contest with Bob Jones, of Atlanta, national amateur champion.

The former British and American open title holder has just returned from a hunting trip in the Canadian northwest where he scored close to par on the duck ponds by bagging 50 ducks with 106 shells.

Hagen will play in the open tournament in November at Princess Anne country club at Norfolk, Va., and in the fall meet at Pinehurst before conferring with Jones about their contest. It is probable that this struggle of the premier linksmen will be played at Pasadena, and Sarasota, Florida.

JURORS ARE SELECTED TO TRY STEPHENSON

Noblesville, Ind., October 28.—(AP) Ten farmers, a truck driver and the manager of a gas plant constitute the jury which will decide in Hamilton circuit court the fate of D. C. Stephenson, former grand dragon of the Indiana Ku Klux Klan, and Earl Kitchey, charged with murdering in connection with the death last April of Miss Madge Oberholzer, of Indianapolis.

Thirteen days of jury choosing—one day less than the record in Indiana legal annals, ended late today, with five men in the panel who had not sat there when court opened this morning.

Trial Begins Today.

Actual trial of the case will begin Thursday with the opening statement to the jury by Charles E. Cox, whom the Oberholzer family has retained as its representative on the defense.

The first "break" in the case occurred this afternoon immediately after the jury had been sworn, when Judge Will M. Sparks overruled its motion that the state be required to specify on which of four counts it will try Stephenson and his aides. All of the counts in the indictment charge first degree murder, alleged to have been caused in connection with the abduction of Miss Oberholzer, her conveyance to Hammond, Ind., by train, her detention in a hotel there for most of a day, her return to Indianapolis by automobile to the Stephenson garage and her alleged detention there overnight by Stephenson and his aides without medical assistance, and the murder, swallowed poison at Hammond. Other indictments against the trio, alleging abduction and assault, are not being tried at present.

Miss Oberholzer died last April 14, after almost a month's illness following the alleged abduction.

Defense counsel have not indicated who they will elect to make their opening statement tomorrow.

If they do not, the state hopes to conclude its preliminary remarks by the jury in time to put on the stand not only Mrs. Oberholzer, but three other important state witnesses, Miss Eunice Schulz with the rooming house where the abduction took place, and Miss Oberholzer and who has said she was present when the girl was brought home ill by men who said she had been in an automobile.

JETT AUTHORIZED TO PUBLISH REPORT BY POLICE BOARD

The police committee of council Wednesday night voted authority to Acting Chief of Police E. L. Jett to publish the annual report of the department for immediate distribution.

The publication of the report will cost $300 and money is on hand to pay this cost. The report has been published every year for 43 years but this year the authority to publish the report had not been granted.

Routine business matters in connection with allowances of pay for injured policemen and hearing of minor charges of infraction of duty occupied the time of the committee. Vice Chairman Claude Buchanan presided in the absence of Chairman A. J. Orme.

BURGLAR CAPTURED AFTER LONG CHASE

Surprised in the act of burglarizing the residence of James F. DeJarnette, of 1035 East North avenue, Wednesday afternoon Joseph Glover, 39-year-old negro, was captured following a chase of several blocks and is being held at police headquarters on charges of disorderly conduct and burglary.

Mrs. DeJarnette returned home early Wednesday afternoon from a shopping trip downtown and discovered the negro in a second-story bedroom. He leaped out of a window and fled down the street.

Rushing to the front door, Mrs. DeJarnette called to a negro driver of a coal delivery wagon asking him to stop the fleeing negro. The driver gave chase and overhauled Glover, holding him until police arrived in response to Mrs. DeJarnette's summons.

The intruder had piled up a quantity of clothing and linens when he was discovered.

FOLLOW THE BALL With Robert C. Zupke

A series of 18 articles on modern football written by the famous coach of the University of Illinois, developer of "Red Grange."

No. 17—THE TEAM'S NAPOLEON (Copyright, 1925, by North American Newspaper Alliance.)

Generalship is the most important function of the quarterback. The quarterback must be a leader. He must be courageous, have confidence, foresight, energy, endurance, personal magnetism and a good voice. He must be able to inspire strong men and possess a passionate love for the game.

A good field general is a treasure and should be protected as far as possible. If the coach can properly balance his team, he should relieve his quarterback of as many mechanical duties as possible so he can devote himself the more to the job of directing the attack. He should do little running, passing, punting and place or drop kicking the ball. Too often it happens that the quarterback also has to carry the ball, punt, block, throw passes, receive punts and tackle. The result is that many quarterbacks go wrong because their time is occupied in perfecting the details of these duties. Furthermore, the physical exertions develop exhaustion, injury or an overheated brain which may impair mental faculties in a game.

The direct pass may be a large or a small man. Most of them happen to be small. Generalship does not require much physical weight or great speed. But, if the quarterback has marked mechanical skill, he can readily become the most feared player on a team.

The Direct Pass.

In recent years the direct pass has found high favor. This lessens the work of the quarterback. But several coaches still rely chiefly on the quarterback feeding the ball to the runner. In my opinion a mixture of direct and indirect passing is most valuable for it produces a varied attack and adds strategy to the offense.

The direct pass adds strength to running plays and the indirect pass has an advantage in delayed tricks and split plays. The quarterback hands the ball to the fullback or plays over the center and to the halfbacks on split backs. He tosses the ball to the halfbacks on quick openings and running plays. He may use a bowling pass for backward and lateral passes.

When the quarterback takes the ball from center, he must be careful not to raise his body or toss the ball high. In keeping low he hides the ball from the defense and also keeps his own backs running low. He must be careful to keep low and mask his intentions. He must encourage his backs to run with him and as a part of the interference and not make a false step or by the style of his opponent's attack—compact or open. As a matter of deception.

Most Valuable Player.

The quarterback usually plays the part of the safety on defense; he is the last man behind the scrimmage line and the goal. He must never leave his position unless he is sure to execute his intentions. This position varies from play to play and is determined largely by the wind, weather or the style of his opponent's attack—compact or open. As a general rule he stands about 20 yards back on a compact offense and when it is an open formation he takes a stand from 35 to 50 yards back.

The qualifications needed in a quarterback vary with the style of play the coach intends to use. An intelligent quarterback, gifted mechanically, is easily the most valuable man on the football field. He not alone designs the attack but he helps to a large extent to execute it.

SHOP ABOLISHMENT HIT BY FEDERATION

Complaint was made at the Atlanta Federation of Trades Wednesday night by George F. Henry that the sanitary machinists' shop in the city construction department had been discontinued without notice, and without preserving the sanitary rights of the workmen after Chief of Construction W. A. Hanes had said the "men would be notified at least one week before discontinuance of work, and that their rights would be protected."

Mr. Hanes asked that the executive board be directed to take the matter up with the chief of construction.

Mr. Hanes stated that machinists in a hotel there for most of a day, her return to Indianapolis by automobile to the Stephenson garage and her alleged detention there overnight by Stephenson and his aides without medical assistance, and the murder, swallowed poison at Hammond. Board Much Humiliated By Poor Showing, Says Statement From Commish

Trenton, N. J., October 28.—The New Jersey boxing commission has tried unsuccessfully to scrape off a little of the mud with which it covered itself when it allowed Floyd Johnson and Harry Wills to fight at Newark Monday night.

The commission announced Wednesday with a flourish of righteous indignation, that Johnson never will be permitted to fight again in New Jersey.

Newton A. K. Bugbee, the state boxing commissioner, officially apologized for allowing such a performance. Despite the fact that the fight had been referred to as having no decent possibilities from the time of its inception to the time when Johnson's seconds threw in the towel during the first round, Bugbee also announced that Homer Robertson, who had made a bad showing during the semi-final, had been suspended for six months.

Excerpts from the commission's announcement include: "The boxing commission of New Jersey was very much humiliated and disappointed at the outcome of the Wills-Johnson fight and feels that an explanation is due the patrons of boxing. Permission to hold the contest was granted only after careful deliberation. In the future it will be the policy of the commissioners to avoid contests of this character."

COLUMBUS BEATS MACON CO. HIGH

Opelika, Ala., October 28.—(Special.)—The Columbus, Ga., high school team defeated the Macon county high team from Natusula at the Opelika fair grounds field here Tuesday afternoon by a score of 19 to 0. The game was a red letter addition to the second day's fair season of the Opelika district fair now in progress.

The game was a hard-fought affair with both teams contesting every inch of ground until the final whistle. Coaching the Columbus high team was J. D. Thomson, captain of the University of Georgia Bulldogs eleven last year. Clyde "Hardboy" Pruitt, star end on the Auburn Tiger eleven is coaching the Natusula team. Only last year these two coaches met in combat in the Auburn-Georgia game in Columbus.

The first score came in the initial period when Brooks, for Columbus, hit the Macon line for a 12-yard buck that carried the ball over. Following this score it was "Shorty" Prefumo, Columbus back, that bore the brunt of the ground gaining. In the second quarter he dashed 10 yards for the second counter of the day. Again in the third period this same "Shorty" raced 55 yards through the Natusula team for a touchdown. Guthrie, Natusula back, cleared into the open, and sped down the field on a 60-yard jaunt in the third quarter, only to be downed by the timely tackling of Holliman, Columbus safety back. Cook and Phillips also played a good game for Natusula.

Another high aspiration that will be taken from Furman in the event of a P. C. defeat is the desire to go through the remainder of the season without another loss. The Purple Hurricane has had ten games on its schedule this season. The greatest number any other state team will play is nine this year. Furman has not

ACTING ARKANSAS GOVERNOR GRANTS FIRST 1925 PARDON

Little Rock, Ark., October 28.—(AP) The first pardon issued in Arkansas since Governor Tom J. Terral assumed office on January 12, 1925, was granted today by Acting Governor S. B. McCall, of Eldorado, during Governor Terral's absence from the state.

The pardon was given to Hamp Hall, former chairman of the state board of control who was convicted and sentenced to four years in the penitentiary in 1923 on charges of embezzlement in connection with the alleged theft of state funds.

Governor Terral is in Birmingham attending a conference of governors.

Mr. McCall is president pro tem of the Arkansas senate and ex-officio lieutenant governor. In announcing the pardon of the former state official, he declared that he regrets the necessity of acting contrary to the penitentiary law, but that he is convinced it would be an act of justice to end Hall's punishment.

GOVERNOR RESENTS MOVE OF "POLITICIANS"

Birmingham, Ala., October 28.—(AP) The pardon of Hamp Hall, former chairman of the Arkansas board of control, by Acting Governor S. B. McCall, was termed "the cowardly performance of a gang of politicians" by Governor Tom J. Terral here tonight. Governor Terral issued a statement in which he declared "the crowd instrumental in securing this pardon came to me several times asking for this same pardon, only to be refused. The lieutenant governor was not elected by the governor. My disappointment in him is keenly felt."

I came to Birmingham to secure information that will be of very great value to the state of Arkansas. Such acts as this will prevent my ever leaving the state, however greatly I may be in position to serve my state."

Boys' High and Marist Clash Today on Grady Field

Colvin Out of Hurricane Lineup; Cadets in Fine Shape for Hard Contest

BY BEN COTHRAN.

Coaches have given final instructions, intensive practice has been on the program for the last week, and Boys' High and Marist are ready for their clash this afternoon at Henry Grady field. This game is the second prep event of the season between local schools, with another scheduled for tomorrow afternoon between Tech High and G. M. A.

Coach Doyal gave his Boys' High squad its final workout Wednesday afternoon. It consisted of signal drill, running back punts, etc. A scrimmage was held Tuesday afternoon, in which the squad did not show up as well as expected.

Several of the varsity players are on the injured list, which will cause the lineup to be changed. Sam Colvin will be out of the entire game this afternoon, with a rising on his arm that has been giving him trouble for quite a while but did not keep him from playing. It was lanced a few days ago, and will keep him out of the game today. Frank Winn, "Breezy" Winn's brother, will start at right end in Colvin's place.

The following is today's starting lineup: Winn and McCleskey, ends; Fincher and Hudson, tackles; Coffey and Shivers, guards; Terrell, center; Watkins, quarter; Catheon and Beard, halves; Winn, full. The Marist Cadets have been hard at work all week getting in shape for their first game with a local prep team. Scrimmage was on the program this week, and also the usual amount of signal drill, perfecting of plays, and tackling. The Cadets have

AUBURN PREPS FOR TULANE STRUGGLE

Auburn, Ala., October 28.—(Special.)—The Auburn Plainsman varsity and coaches stand with their backs to the historic reminiscence of five hard grid struggles of the 1925 season which have already been recorded on the pages of Auburn's football history. These struggles have been fought out with Birmingham-Southern, Clemson college, Virginia Polytechnic institute, University of Texas and Howard college.

Turning to the future, and in the immediate background the Orange and Blue squad casts an eye-to-eye glance into the optics of four stalwart opponents. These ancient and respected Tiger foes are the Tulane Greenvies, the University of Georgia Bulldogs, the Commodores from Vanderbilt university and the Georgia Tech Yellow Jackets.

The first and foremost of these obstacles that must be encountered will appear on the scene next Saturday afternoon, October 31, at Cantonment, Monticello, where the Plainsman Beagles meet the Tulane Greenvies.

In making ready for the Tulane game, a number of problems confront the Tiger coaches as the week's grind is under way. One of the outstanding tasks of priming for the Tulane game is found in the defensive department. With Shute and Turner both in the hands of the hospital crew the lines of ripping the Tulane line with fullback thrusts rests with Salter. Coach Moore is busily engaged in designing the Auburn attack for running plays built around Crane and Williams. On the shoulders of these two gentlemen, assisted by Newsome and Hunnicutt, at the halfback posts will rest the chief responsibility of advancing the ball on end runs and off-ankle plays. Another imperative need of the running attack is evident, when the kicking forces of the team are considered. Green, who has led in this form of attack on the offensive to date, is suffering from a sprained ankle which curbs his efforts materially. His punting during his stay in the Howard game last Saturday averaged scarcely more than 25 yards.

To direct the running attack, Frank Toole, one of the trio of quarterbacks, attached to the varsity string, will doubtless be called on in the Tulane game. Bogue seems to be more adapted to the running style of play than either of the other two quarterbacks. To date, he is suffering from a sprained ankle which curbs his efforts materially. His punting during his stay in the Howard game last Saturday averaged scarcely more than 25 yards.

Boxing in Atlanta.
Duggan May Get Work.
Risko May Be Foe.

AFTER a year of inactivity in Atlanta there is a good chance that the boxing game will again flourish in this city. Three men, who, for promote at least one card of boxing in this city, and intend to announce the principals soon.

Because he controls the destinies of two prominent Georgia boxers it is probable that Billy Lotz, veteran of many a promotion, will be asked to act as matchmaker, and to send Billy Duggan, his promising heavyweight, against some good boy at the opening show.

LET Atlanta be told that Billy Duggan is no minor-league performer. After having once been stopped by Joe White, the Alabama boxer, Duggan has progressed so rapidly that he is regarded as absolute poison by most of the boxing managers who believe they have a chance to grow their charges into heavy money.

At St. Petersburg, Fla., for instance, Billy has become so obnoxious to blooming heavyweights that he does not stand in favor with the promoter. The promoter, however, has placed Duggan on with Jack Davis with the general effect of placing Davis and a hand grenade in the ring together. Davis lasted less than two rounds against the Rome slugger, much to the horror of the promoter, who believed that in Davis he had a man who not only could beat the Georgian, but who also might be fed setups with such effect that the St. Petersburg boxing coffers would be lined with tourist gold.

THERE has been some clamoring about southern fight centers for a battle between Duggan and Jack Risko, a Cleveland, Ohio, heavyweight, who has been slamming northern and eastern pretenders about various rings. Billy Lotz, who manages Duggan, is not averse to the meeting, although he is quite aware that in Risko, Duggan would be meeting the best man he ever was called upon to face.

It may be that a heavyweight card will be the first to be offered this winter in Atlanta and that the star performers will be Duggan and Jack Risko. It is understood that plans now call for two preliminary bouts and two main events of ten rounds each.

GRID CLASSICS THORPE FIRED ON IN EAST BY N. Y. PRO GRID TEAM

New York, October 28.—(AP)—Football rivalries that go back into the more or less dim past of the drama of the gridiron are being revived this Saturday in four of the contests that hold the interest of eastern fans.

There is no traditional color connected with the contests, which are sectional clashes of the week, those involving Michigan-Navy and Pennsylvania-Illinois, but there is a wealth of background to the contests, which bring together Army and Yale at New Haven, Cornell and Columbia at Ithaca, and Dartmouth and Brown at Providence. In addition, there is the renewal of the dispute between two old New England schools, Tufts and Wesleyan, which goes back to 1885.

Yale holds a big edge over the Army in their series of gridiron conflicts, starting in 1883, but the Army is primed for revenge on the Bulldogs this week, with more than a fair chance of gaining it, in the opinion of many critics. Not since 1917, when Yale won by 6 to 0, have the Bulldogs raised the victory cheer at New Haven. In 24 previous games, Yale has won 15, the Army three, with six battles, including that of 1924, have ended in ties.

Dartmouth Game Oldies. Dartmouth dates its warfare with Brown back to 1881, and the Big Green, acknowledged to be the most powerful in the east this year, has not been victorious since 1919 but to that time, with the exception of a five-year winning streak, by Dartmouth from 1901 to 1905, inclusive, the Bulldogs have had things pretty well their own way.

If Brown can summon reserve strength sufficient to bolster up its weakened line, and if the Bulldogs can make it more interesting for Dartmouth than is expected, Cornell back to 1881, and the Big Green, acknowledged to be the most powerful in the east this year, has not been victorious since 1919 but to that time, with the exception of a five-year winning streak, by Dartmouth from 1901 to 1905, inclusive, the Bulldogs have had things pretty well their own way.

LOYOLA WILL USE S. C. RULES

New Orleans, La., October 28.—(AP) Loyola university athletic authorities announced tonight the severance of relations with the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic association. This action closes a discussion between the university and athletic organization, as to Loyola's status, extending over a period of weeks.

Differences of opinion developed soon after the opening of the season over the application of the migratory rule and Dr. J. W. Provine, president of the S. I. A. A., announced that he had accepted Loyola's resignation. Loyola met this announcement with a denial that a resignation had been submitted.

A statement by the Rev. Florence Sullivan, S. J., president of Loyola, tonight concludes:

"Loyola severs its relations with the official body of the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic association and will in the future govern itself by the rules adopted by universities of the south, known as the Southern conference."

"Loyola will strictly conform to these rules as it has hitherto conformed to the rules while a member of the S. I. A. A., and will gladly have its eligibility lists inspected and approved by the officials of the Southern conference."

The work of John Goldsmith and Joe Hutson, substitutes for Parrish and Cooper, has been above reproach.

MRS. WILLIAMS WINS FIRST MATCH

Favorites won their matches in the second round of play in the annual golf tournament at Piedmont park for the Maier and Berkeley trophy, although the play eliminated Mrs. Dozier Lowndes, former southern champion. Mrs. Lowndes was defeated by Mrs. J. P. Franck, three and two, but Mrs. Williams was conceding 17 strokes.

Other winners of the first round matches were Mrs. T. T. Williams, winner of the cup in 1924, who defeated Mrs. Gilbert Marshall two and one; Miss Jimmie Pattillo, who defeated Mrs. C. F. Humphrey, three and two; and Mrs. L. H. Beck, who beat Mrs. Tommie Wilson, four and two.

Only one match was played in the second round, for the other three in that division drew byes. The one match resulted in a six and five victory for Mrs. Eleanor McAniff over Mrs. F. B. Porter.

In addition to the handsome trophies offered by the Atlanta Women's Golf association, the low medalist, Mrs. Williams, and winner of both flights, will receive a case of Pay-Day, a soft drink offered by the company that produces it.

The finals for the second round of match play set for today, are as follows:

First Flight. Mrs. T. T. Williams plays Mrs. L. H. Beck; Miss Jimmie Pattillo plays Mrs. J. P. Franck.

Second Flight. Mrs. Eleanor McAniff plays Mrs. A. G. Smith; Mrs. John Hill plays Mrs. C. Strickler.

The finals will be played Friday morning.

AVERA READY TO FIGHT AGAIN

Larry Avera, junior welterweight, who by a long string of victories, ascended to the title of southern champion in his class, is again in condition for bouts, following a two months' layoff during which he has been nursing a broken jaw.

Billy Lotz, Avera's manager, said last night that Avera is again in perfect condition and is ready to take on all comers. After suffering a fracture of his jaw in a bout with Ken Burris, at Fort Bragg, N. C., Avera fought five bouts, but in the last one, "Cherry Pie," his opponent, smashed him on the weak spot and made the layoff necessary.

Avera is working out daily. Lotz has two others working out daily with Avera. One is Billy (K. O.) Duggan, Rome heavyweight under Lotz' direction, and the other is Bobby Lux, of New York, a junior lightweight who is now being managed by Lotz.

Light Rush Line To Start Contest With Two Big Men Gone; Subs in Scrimmage

The Stormy Petrels, a crippled bunch of footballers, will entrain for New Orleans this afternoon at 4:20 o'clock, where they will encounter the strong Loyola team Saturday.

The Petrel team that will take the field against Loyola will be a poor one compared to those that have taken the field against Tech, Fort Benning, Wofford, Centre and Howard. The rush line is light, as the absence of Parrish and Cooper took from the line two of its heaviest men.

A long scrimmage was the order of practice yesterday afternoon, the second stringers opposing the "rat" team. The second stringers got off to some nice gains around the ends and bucking the line. Once or twice the second team completed forward passes for substantial gains.

They are working hard in an effort to overcome the lack of weight and experience they need. Only persistent effort will accomplish this, and Coach Robertson is pushing them through strenuous grinds.

Kilgore on Crutches. Captain Bob Kilgore has had to take to crutches. It was announced by the doctor who examined Bob that he had a badly sprained knee, and would have to refrain from participating in games or practice affairs for some time. It has not been definitely announced by Coach Robertson as to who will fill Kilgore's position, but "Stout" Garlington has been showing up fine of late and he, no doubt, will fill the vacancy.

Interest in U. D. C. Meet Centers in Annual Report Of Mrs. Grace, President

Thirty-First Annual Convention Being Held in Sandersville Expected To Close Tonight.

BY MRS. McCORD ROBERTS,
Staff Correspondent.
Sandersville, Ga., October 28.—
(Special).—Two business sessions and a formal program, featuring historical subjects occupied the attention today of delegates to the 31st annual convention of the Georgia division, United Daughters of the Confederacy, being held here with the Mary-Ann Williams chapter as hostess.

Historical evening Thursday will bring to a close this largely attended gathering and two social affairs, a luncheon and a tea, will add to the brilliancy of the final day. The sessions are being held in the Christian church here.

The outstanding feature of Wednesday was the address delivered by Mrs. Walter Grace, president of the Georgia division, which included the annual report. The address dealt with every phase of division work for the past year, as were such subjects as the Soldiers' home in Atlanta, essay contest, textbooks, etc.

Soldiers Satisfied.

Of conditions at the Soldiers' Home the report says: "It is with some satisfaction that your president reports that conditions at the Soldiers' Home seem to be in very good shape. At the request of the Daughters, to the board of trustees of the home, a graduate nurse is now in charge at the hospital. A physician, whose duty it is not only to call there every day, but to come at any time of day or night when needed. There are two student physicians there, one of whom sleeps there. There are 86 veterans now at the home. The men seem happy and well cared for."

On the matter of education the report says that more than $42,000 was raised by the Georgia division for educational purposes, scholarships, loan funds, etc., during the past year. Particular mention is made of the value of the Helen Plane loan scholarship, available for girls of Confederate lineage; work of the Frances Barton memorial school at Rabun Gap for mountain children was commended, and contributions were reported for the Willie Davis hall at the State Normal school, at Athens.

"Portraits of our heroes of the sixties and flags of the confederacy," says the report, "placed in our schools are very impressive to our young school children. It should be a part of the program of every Daughter to see that this is done."

Of special interest to the convention was the statement of Mrs. Grace in connection with the essay contest. "Your president is happy to inform you," she said, "that the assistant superintendent of the Atlanta schools has received the essays of the contest. The subject chosen for the essay contest this year, so that they might incorporate this study subject in their studies, was 'The Battle of Gettysburg.' The subject should be determined at this convention. On the matter of textbooks for textbooks, Mrs. Grace was emphatic, stating that 'text-books' is the keynote of the convention. She made a plea that school books giving the true story of the south in history be adopted throughout the south."

Writes State History.

Mrs. Grace stated that Miss Millie Rutherford has now in the hands of the printers a history of Georgia.

Announcement by Mrs. Grace of the completion of the Jefferson Davis monument at Nashville, Ky., was greeted with much applause.

The Stone Mountain memorial is dealt with at some length in the report and after giving the history of differences existing between the president of the United Daughters in Georgia and the Memorial association, Mrs. Grace said: "Many efforts have been made and are still being made by the association to use the United Daughters of the Confederacy in selling the memorial coin. Your president has steadfastly refrained from doing anything to injure the association. She has only tried to protect the interests of the United Daughters of the Confederacy."

"If the association will assume the responsibility of building this memorial as a show place for tourists, well and good; let us put no obstacle in the way. But when neither the United Daughters of the Confederacy nor any of their officers are consulted or advised with about complete changes in the original plans, and when all information is denied them as to why such changes have been made, as to what money has been received by the association and how it has been disbursed and as to what the money hereafter coming into the association's hands will be spent for; and when the association has ignored the Daughters of the Confederacy by excluding from its council the official representatives of the United Daughters of the Confederacy and when, above all, the association has not sufficient space and no present prospect of securing sufficient space to complete the monument, our organization, in the opinion of your president, can have no further part in raising funds for the use of the association."

Report Gives Reasons.

The report designates two reasons why the Daughters "should not be an organization undertake to assist in the sale of the memorial coins. First, that the coins are selling for $1 each when they should be sold for face value, 50 cents; second, 'this project is no longer one sponsored by the Daughters, nor under its control.' The report says that the Daughters' official connection with the monument ceased when the 'name of your president and the name of the chairman of the Stone Mountain memorial fund of the Georgia division of the United Daughters of the Confederacy' were omitted from the board of directors of the Stone Mountain Memorial association, following the meeting held in April."

The appearance on the streets today and in the homes where U. D. C. delegates are visitors, of an anonymous four-page manuscript, stating that Mrs. Grace was using her office in an attempt to defeat the erection of the Stone Mountain monument, and that she has already hindered progress of the project, created a stir here.

The manuscript, without salutation or signature, is typewritten and mimeographed. It was distributed by boys here. It was said.

Large Sum Collected.

Report of officers and chairmen occupied the remainder of the morning, these reports embodying the statement that the organization had collected and disbursed during the year a sum exceeding $8,000, this money having been expended for memorial, historical, benevolent and educational work sponsored by the division and embracing aid rendered a variety of patriotic undertakings.

Memorial hour on Tuesday afternoon was marked by a solemn and beautiful ceremony, conducted by Mrs. Charles T. Phillips of Atlanta. Nearly 50 names were read and the memorial was a floral offering of great beauty, constructed by gifts of flowers in memory of each deceased Daughter of the Confederacy. On motion of Mrs. Helen C. Plane, of Macon, this floral offering will be placed on the grave of Mrs. Helen C. Plane, who organized the division in Atlanta 31 years ago.

Election of officers will occupy attention of the convention on Thursday afternoon, when the report of the nominating committee will be heard, the officers to be elected this year including president, the three vice presidents, corresponding secretary and auditor. No opposition to Mrs. Oscar McKenzie, of Montezuma, has developed and it is generally conceded that she will succeed Mrs. Walter Grace, whose term of office expires by limitation at this convention.

Names mentioned for the vice presidents include Mrs. S. G. Lang, official hostess for the home of Mrs. J. A. Sel den, of Atlanta; Mrs. P. H. Jeter, of Decatur; Mrs. Rosa McMaster, of Waynesboro; and Mrs. Frank Exley, of Savannah.

Members of the nominating committee include Mrs. Betty Cobb, of Carrollton; Mrs. Stafford Stiel, of Atlanta; Mrs. Leo Frammel, of Madison; Mrs. Walter Lamar, of Macon, and Mrs. G. P. Folks, of Waycross.

Officers Report.

Officers reporting on Wednesday included Mrs. P. H. Jeter, of Decatur, second vice president; Mrs. J. A. Sel den, of Macon, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Charles T. Phillips, of Atlanta, treasurer; Mrs. Kirby Smith Anderson, of Madison; Mrs. H. M. McMaster, of Waynesboro; Miss Lillie Marino, of Hawkinsville.

The remainder of the business session was given over to chapter reports and to the attractive flag ceremony conducted by chapter presidents at the opening session in response to the roll call.

Social affairs on Thursday will include a buffet luncheon at the home of Colonel and Mrs. J. J. Harris, at which the press will be featured. McCord Roberts, of Atlanta, will be toastmaster and the speakers will include Mrs. J. J. Harris, state press chairman of the Federal Music Clubs of Georgia; Mrs. R. E. Walker, of the Macon Telegraph; Mrs. A. R. Wright, of Sandersville; Gordon Chapman, of the States Rights Progress.

An elaborate tea to be given at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Shellnutt by a group of Sandersville organization will conclude the social side of the convention, this tea to be followed by the formal program devoted to historical subjects with which the convention will end Thursday night.

Social affairs of Wednesday were elaborate and included a buffet luncheon at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. George C. Evans, tea at Tennille as the guests of the Tennille Woman's club in their clubhouse and a brilliant reception on Wednesday evening

'SPITBALL' FIDDLER OBJECT OF PROTEST

The use of the spitball in the big leagues a few years ago almost broke up those circuits and now comes the question of whether a spitball delivery will be permitted in the Old-Time Georgia Fiddlers' convention, which will be held Friday and Saturday night and Saturday matinee at the auditorium.

This question was raised by "Laughing Gid" Tanner, of Conyers, who has discovered that nardle dust from quarries at Stone Mountain, moistened by a touch of the tongue, is far superior to any resin yet invented for loud fiddling purposes.

It was learned that "Laughing Gid" is preparing to use his "moist delivery" in his numbers during the fiddlers' convention and a protest against the use of such a method has been lodged with the committee by "Red Neck Jim" Lawson. It is said that Lawson uses the old-fashioned resin and does not understand the use of the moistened marble dust.

Thus far the committee has declined to rule out use of marble dust, hence "Laughing Gid" will appear as a favorite in the contest in which 55 Georgia fiddlers and seven from North Carolina will take part. Professor Alex Smart, the Meriwether county comedian, will preside as master of ceremonies and there will be two troupes of square dancers from North Carolina and the bull fiddle band of Lindale, Ga., in the lineup.

REDS TO OPEN SCHOOL IN MEMORY OF DR. SEN

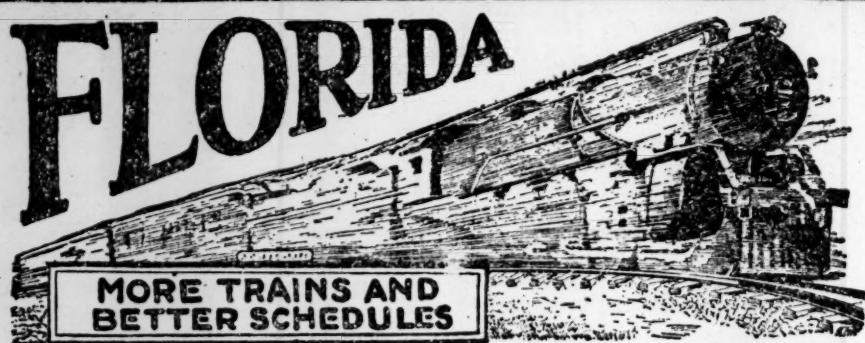

Moscow, October 28.—(AP)—The soviet authorities have completed plans for the opening in Moscow in December of a Chinese memorial university dedicated to Sun Yat Sen, the "father of the Chinese revolution," and in his later years an ally of bolshevism, who died last February in Peking.

SALES OF FI FAS TO BE APPROVED BY COMMITTEE

No city fi fas for delinquent taxes will be permitted to be sold until such fi fas have been brought before the taxation committee of council and the sale approved by that body, according to provisions of an ordinance which will be presented to council Monday by the committee.

At a meeting of the committee Wednesday afternoon attention of members was called to several cases where persons had paid taxes on their property, but later had been called on to pay them again by people who had purchased the fi fas.

Under the new arrangement provided in the ordinance no fi fas can be sold until they have been brought to the attention of the tax committee. This will permit the property owner to appear before the committee and rectify any mistakes that might have occurred.

value of the Helen Plane loan scholarship, available for girls of Confederate lineage; work of the Frances Barton memorial school at Rabun Gap for mountain children was commended, and contributions were reported for the Willie Davis hall at the State Normal school, at Athens.

"Portraits of our heroes of the sixties and flags of the confederacy," says the report, "placed in our schools are very impressive to our young school children. It should be a part of the program of every Daughter to see that this is done."

"Your president is happy to inform you," she said, "that the assistant superintendent of the Atlanta schools has received the essays of the contest. The subject chosen for the essay contest this year, so that they might incorporate this study subject in their studies, was 'The Battle of Gettysburg.' The subject should be determined at this convention. On the matter of textbooks for textbooks, Mrs. Grace was emphatic, stating that 'text-books' is the keynote of the convention. She made a plea that school books giving the true story of the south in history be adopted throughout the south."

Mrs. Grace stated that Miss Millie Rutherford has now in the hands of the printers a history of Georgia.

Announcement by Mrs. Grace of the completion of the Jefferson Davis monument at Nashville, Ky., was greeted with much applause.

JOANNA

BY H. L. GATES

SYNOPSIS.

Joanna, a modern shop girl, parentless, living alone, is summoned to the office of Graydon, owner of the department store where she is employed and given a letter addressed to her in care of the store. The letter informs her that $1,000,000 has been deposited to her account in Eggleston's bank by a benefactor who provides that his name nor his reasons for the stupendous gift shall be revealed to her. No conditions are attached to the gift, and Joanna is told that she may do with the money as she wishes. Neither Graydon nor Eggleston, who is a great financier, nor Graydon will advise her. Joanna meets Brandon, a nephew of Graydon. He exerts a strange influence over her and she at times is afraid of him. He becomes devoted to her. She knows instinctively that Brandon is setting a trap of some kind for her. Joanna is thunderstruck when she hears the suspicions of all her own crowd, the other shop girls and her friends, who will not believe that she actually received a fortune from an unknown man innocently. Desperately she turns to John, her school-day sweetheart, who is also poor, and studying to be an architect. John also is suspicious and repudiates her, accusing her of having fallen to the level of her two short skirts, her lipstick and her cigarettes.

INSTALLMENT XVI.

Brandon smiled with her. "You mustn't class me as so different from the rest of your boys as you call them. You have succeeded admirably in captivating me, without added wiles. And you've put me down as a plain fortune hunter, can you? You see I have a famous banker as a doing uncle and I've heaps of stocks and bonds and such things—so you are not to consider me as having set a trap for your millions."

"There—that's what I mean," Joanna flung at him. "I shall have to learn how to meet you and your kind when you say things like that. The best sort of talk I've ever had from a man who went right down into deep water was, 'come in out of the wet,' or something like that. John has been the only one I could ever allow to talk seriously to me about—well, about my ever being married, you know."

Brandon caught the wistfulness in her voice, the wistfulness that came into it at every mention of John. His lips curled again, ever so slightly. "You will have to listen to a great many men who will talk of marriage," he said. "I think it is better for you that you had your little smash, last night before you had plunged too far. John will be waiting, when you are ready to call him—if you really want him."

A deep flush warmed Joanna's face. Her eyes hardened. Brandon saw, but he had been deliberate. He met her eyes coolly. Before she could make her attack he dismissed her. "I fancy that whoever bestowed a fortune upon you would prefer that you be uninfluenced in your spending of it—for a time, at any rate. That, though, is only my own conclusion. And I'm wondering if you will fit John into your new career as snugly as you fitted him into the one he binds you."

Again Joanna surveyed the company around her while she considered what sort of reply to make. She realized that Brandon had been leading up to this, and she was unhappy before a doubt that he had succeeded in planting in her mind. Would John fit in? Now? Into this gay world of pleasure, joy, unrepentance to which she was being admitted? Could she, with him holding up for her the examples of his own old-fashioned ideals, exact from her new opportunities their full meed of the only things she knew to be worth while. She hated Brandon, fiercely, she concluded, for conjuring up the doubt. And hated him for the cunning with which he had stirred it.

She was brought abruptly out of her reflections. The woman who had once before hovered at the table had come up again. Joanna had not seen that quiet signal from Brandon's cigarette which was instantly caught at the nearby table where a woman sat with her escort, a man made much after the pattern of Brandon himself.

Brandon rose and greeted the newcomer. Joanna looked up at her, startled by a sleek, perfectly assembled beauty that was as pungent as the essence of some heavy perfume. Brandon called the stranger lightly. Joanna caught the softness of the foreign-sounding name, and heard that Brandon called the stranger, "Yvonne." Despite the pretenses, Joanna sensed, instinctively, that the meeting had been arranged.

Joanna Meets Another Suitor.

In the sudden cascade of small talk with which the newcomers were settled into their places at the table by two waiters, each more excitable than the other, Joanna was vaguely uncomfortable—out of her accustomed depths. Her store of smart things seemed utterly inadequate to the easy greetings and persiflage. Within her own experiences, introductory conversations took one or the other of two set courses—herself or "himself." She was never concerned with other women, whether they liked her or not. Not the ones who came and went across her horizon. They were all like her, merely rivals, equipped as she was, with the common-place weapons of our modern flapperhood—lips always shaped for kisses, a ready wisdom that guarded those lips when occasions arose, clothes that added to the lure of her and a skill at defense or attack. In Joanna's scheme of things any girl, these days, must be ready instantly to take the defense or launch an attack—necessary. She and George got along splendidly in the introduction of all new acquaintances among the available supply of properly-mannered, good-enough-looking young chaps with new places to go. She considered now, when she stole a glance at the man who had come up with the woman with the sleek, black hair, that by the time he had said, "How do you do?" to George, that little lady would have blithely inquired of him:

"Well now, look who's here! Why do you think you amount to so much?" And she reflected that, this time, George would get the worst of it in any such encounter.

As she had concluded a moment before, at her first sight of him, Kenilworth—"Roddy," Brandon had called him—was made in the same mold as Brandon, but there was a difference. She disliked Brandon, because she feared that he was to have some tragic influence over her and her mysterious future, but, she admitted, he wouldn't be little. He would not be the sort who would plot for some small favor. If he should want to amuse himself with a woman, he would aim at her soul. She knew the kind—and the danger they embodied.

Kenilworth—he was of the sort she was most accustomed to, only, of course, he was the superkind that would press to his lips whatever ribbons might come to his finger tips at night, and blow them to the winds in the morning without regard for silk or cotton.

She would always have to be on her guard against Brandon. If Kenilworth carried out the threat which lurked in his calculating eyes as he let them sweep over her, she'd checkmate him, easily. Considering all persons of the other sex as hunters, Joanna fell to wondering what would be the tactics of such a man as Kenilworth who, not being by any means young, must have had divers experiences. She was brought sharply out of this reflection by the young woman with the black hair, whom Brandon had called Yvonne.

"Don't you all know it's horrid, to have to pretend," Yvonne said, suddenly, allowing her fingers to flutter over Joanna's wrist, "that we aren't bubbling over with excitement about Miss Manners' amazing news? I, for one, must tell her how thrilling I think it must be."

Joanna gave her a grateful glance. "There doesn't seem to be anything else I can think about," she admitted. "If I only knew why and from whom."

"Let's see," Kenilworth mused aloud, "Joanna stands for some generosity of the gods, doesn't it? Something like a 'gracious gift,' if I remember my mythology aright. Gods, like gift-horses, mustn't be looked in the mouth. Not even by the loveliest of their favorites. My advice to Miss Manners is to never worry over the source of her dramatic good fortune but proceed to hire as many pipes to make music for her as she wants to pay."

Yvonne laughed a silvery laugh that Joanna envied. "And you, Roddy, are dying to offer yourself as one of the original pipes," she accused. To Joanna she added brightly: "He's a beast of prey, this Roddy. He has the same accessories in every part that a sailor is supposed to have put away for his shore leaves. You must never take him seriously. Especially when he makes furious love to you." Kenilworth raised a protesting hand, but Yvonne continued, nodding at him:

"Oh, you'll be making love to her before the evening's out." She turned again to Joanna, and informed her, with a trick of dropping her voice, into the inflections of a mock confidence as soon as she was home: "He'll start in with your eyes, my dear; he has a fancy that young women pin their faith in their eyes and old women on their complexions."

Brandon came to Joanna's rescue. "She will survive, even Roddy, I'm sure," he commented. "She has a most disconcerting way of putting the proper people in the right places."

Over the coffee they talked of the money, of Graydon, and Eggleston—and quite understood Joanna's inability to make plans. As often as she could Joanna watched Yvonne, and studied her. She was of the kind that seldom comes to the silk counter of a department store. Joanna decided she was a bright example of the butterfly who hovers gaily over the most desirable gardens in that world to which "Miss Twenty-seven, of the silks," had stood no closer than the farthest edge until tonight. And she thought that Yvonne was deliberately reaching out to her, as if to bring her within some common bond. Immediately, though, she considered if this feeling were not born of her own self-consciousness.

SIMPLE HOME MIXTURE
DARKENS GRAY HAIR

Cincinnati Barber Tells How Any One Can Prepare It In 5 Minutes.

Any man or woman can easily look twenty years younger by simply darkening their gray, faded or streaky hair. This is now easy to accomplish with a recipe given by a well known Cincinnati barber.

Simply take a half-pint of water, add one ounce of bay rum, 1.4 ounce of glycerine and a small box of Barbo Compound. Shake and it is ready to use. These ingredients can be bought at drug stores at trifling cost.

Applied to the hair twice weekly this delightful mixture quickly gives the desired shade. It is easy to use, is not sticky or greasy, will not color the scalp and does not rub off.—(adv.)

COLBERG TO ANSWER
WHITE SLAVE CHARGE

As the outcome of a long fight to prevent being brought to Atlanta for trial on a charge of violating the Mann white slavery act, Marcus Colberg is scheduled to appear in the United States district court today to answer allegations by representatives of the department of justice.

Colberg has been placed under heavy bond by authorities in Chicago, where he was arrested on the white slavery charge, for his appearance today. J. C. Foley, department of justice chief in charge of the Atlanta office, announced Wednesday. "The government is ready to 'go to bat' in the case and whether or not it is heard today will depend upon Colberg's living up to the conditions of his bond, Mr. Foley said. Should Colberg jump his bond by failing to appear an order for his arrest will be issued and he will be brought here for trial.

According to charges Colberg went from Atlanta to Chattanooga with Miss Reba Lawrence, and they were married in that city. Returning to Atlanta, they lived at a local hotel for a while and Colberg disappeared. It is set out. It was then found that Colberg already had a living wife and several children when he married Miss Lawrence, and department of justice agents began a search for him, which ended in his apprehension in Chicago. Colberg fought an effort to bring him back to Atlanta from Chicago for trial, which ended recently in the judge ordering him back to this city. He was placed under a heavy bond for his appearance in court today.

Middle West Hit
By Heavy Snows
And Low Mercury

Chicago, October 28.—Deep snows and temperatures ranging as low as 14 degrees below zero have brought gladness to the hearts of the kids of the midwest and serious thoughts of heavy clothing and fuel bills to the minds of their parents.

Sleds and skates came out of summer quarters in half a dozen states in this part of the country Wednesday, as the unseasonable wave of cold showed more signs of growing worse than of abating into usual October weather.

The earliest freeze in the history of the upper Mississippi valley made skating good at Little Falls, Minn. Many coasting parties came into vogue overnight in Nebraska, Iowa, Wisconsin, parts of Indiana, the Dakotas and Illinois.

Ice-sheeted streets added to the hazards of motoring in the cities, but railroads generally were able to follow their regular time schedules.

At Valentine, Nebraska, the thermometer dropped to four degrees below zero. Rapid City, S. D., was the coldest spot in the United States with a temperature of 14 below.

Although some reaction set in Wednesday night the weather bureau predicted abnormally low temperatures would prevail throughout its forecast area Thursday.

Clear skies and moderate temperatures are in prospect for Saturday's football games, the weather bureau believes.

OVERSEER GIVEN
DEATH SENTENCE
IN WIFE KILLING

Tuskegee, Ala., October 28.—(AP)—J. T. Cherry, road overseer, must pay with his life for the murder on October 19 of his invalid wife, is the verdict of a jury of Macon county citizens here late today.

The trial began Tuesday morning before Judge N. D. Denson, of Opelika. A special session of the grand jury indicted Cherry five days after the killing of Mrs. Cherry.

After overruling a motion for a new trial, Judge Denson set December 18 as the day for Cherry's execution.

CRIMINAL ARMY
HITS CALIFORNIA
AS WINTER BEGINS

San Francisco, October 28.—The annual invasion of California by criminals who seek a warmer climate for their winter operations is under way.

Chief of Police D. J. O'Brien has issued orders to all nation capitol, instructing them to note suspicious characters in their districts. Night patrols will be doubled at once, he said.

Chief O'Brien explained that crime records had convinced him that rogues and holdup men already had arrived in numbers that would be increased steadily with each cold snap in the east.

U. S. Tax Appeal
Board May Quit
For Lack of Funds

Washington, October 28.—The house ways and means committee in its consideration of a program of tax reduction, has a new worry on its hands.

The board of tax appeals, a congressional created agency to handle administration of the tax law, will have to go out of business if budget slashes now ordered are carried out. Chairman J. Gilmer Kerner, Jr., of the board, told the committee Wednesday.

The board made an appeal for $51,000 in the deficiency appropriations contemplated for this year, but the budget refused to allow it, he said. Unless some relief is given the board must suspend in the spring, he declared.

Have Final Say. Under the law the board now has the final say in the adjudication of all tax appeals which are made by taxpayers against orders of the treasury department.

The major expense of the board, according to Kerner, is an item of $277,000 for salaries. Lack of funds, he said, is now the main problem of the board which is handling an additional number of cases every month. George M. Morris, speaking for the American Bar association, praised the board and declared that any "so-called economy that would hamper its work would be a terrible mistake." Rejection of the personnel of the board to seven members would be fatal, he argued.

Suggests Pay Boost. Morris suggested that the salaries of members of the board should be raised even above what they now are. He said the present salary of $7,500 annually is inadequate for the calibre of men desired on the board. The board spent the day hearing witnesses regarding the board and technical features for tightening administration of the new tax law.

Richmond Woman
Allowed To Serve
Term in Hospital

Richmond, Va., October 28.—(AP)—Mrs. Maggie B. Nichols, convicted several months ago in Powhatan county circuit court of throwing her water into the face of Mrs. Horlene Y. Mitchell and sentenced to 90 days in jail and fined $500, will be permitted to serve her sentence in a hospital here. Under a ruling of Judge E. P. Cox, of the Powhatan court, handed down yesterday, Mrs. Nichols will begin her sentence in the hospital next Saturday. Judge Cox acted on the advice of two physicians who declared the woman's health would be impaired by incarceration in jail.

The offense for which Mrs. Nichols was convicted was committed in front of a church in Powhatan county as Mrs. Mitchell and her husband and children were about to enter for Sunday services. Mrs. Nichols is alleged to have found a letter in her husband's pocket which she testified at her trial was written by Mrs. Mitchell. Mrs. Mitchell and Nichols were officers of the church, and Mrs. Nichols was a member of another congregation.

COLUMBUS COMPANY
PLANS DEVELOPMENT

Application of the Columbus Electric and Power company for authority to issue $2,500,000 in preferred stock; $2,500,000 in three-year 5 per cent gold coupon notes, and permission to guarantee the payment of $424,000 in five-year, non-interest-bearing notes of the South Georgia Power company Wednesday disclosed plans of that company for taking over the interests of the Georgia-Alabama Power company of Albany in its subsidiary, the South Georgia Public Service company. The application was filed with the Georgia public service commission. The petition stated that extensive developments of all the properties are in prospect.

Brilliant Ceremony Unites Miss Gunn and Mr. Baxter

The marriage of Miss Virginia Gertrude Gunn and John Tracy Baxter, of Macon, was solemnized Wednesday evening at a brilliant ceremony at 8:30 o'clock at the First Presbyterian church in the presence of a fashionable assemblage of relatives and friends. During the gathering of the guests, Charles Sheldon, well-known organist, rendered a beautiful and appropriate musical program, also playing the wedding march from "Lohengrin" at the entrance of the bride party. Mr. Sheldon played softly the "Meditation" from the opera "Thais" during the marriage service. The Rev. Dr. J. Sprole Lyon, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, performed the impressive ceremony. Acting as ushers were Robert Alston, Emmett Small, Dr. Joseph E. Osborne, General Walter Harris, of Macon; Clark Foreman and William Sibley.

Magnificent Decorations.

The pulpit and choir loft of the handsome church were banked with palms, ferns, tropical foliage plants and evergreens. This mass of hot-house greenery was arranged in three pyramids, the center pyramid rising to the height of the ceiling. Massive urns holding long-stemmed, shaggy white chrysanthemums were arranged between the pyramids and on either side of the altar. Myriads of white tapers burning in brass candelabra were placed among the foliage and lent an illuminating effect to the beautiful scene. Pews reserved for the families were marked by clusters of large white chrysanthemums tied with wide white satin ribbon.

Wedding Attendants.

Misses Emily Houser, Hazel Sparks, Anna West, Eva Hall and Fitzallen Kendall, all of Macon, and Miss Callie Orme were the attractive group of bridesmaids and descended the long aisle of the church in pairs, alternating with the groomsmen who also entered in pairs. Miss Sparks and Miss Houser entered together, wearing gowns of white satin crepe. Miss West and Miss Orme followed and wore pink satin crepe gowns. Miss Hall and Miss Kendall wore a lovely pair, wearing gowns of white satin crepe.

The bridesmaids' gowns were all fashioned along straight lines with elaborate designs formed of crystal beads trimming the bodices and skirts. They carried immense shiver bouquets of pink roses, valley lilies and swainsons. The bouquets carried by the brides were pink, featuring showers of white swainsons and those wearing white, were showered with the pink swainsons.

The groomsmen were Conner Howell, Grady Black, Watts Gunn, Charles Valentine, Frank Talbot and Samuel Coleman, of Macon.

Miss Henrietta Gunn, younger sister of the bride-elect, and Miss Lora Solomon, of Macon, were the two attendant junior bridesmaids and entered together. They wore the daintiest of shell pink chiffon frocks, made with short circular skirts and berths. Tiny clusters of French flowers adorned the left shoulders and they carried old-fashioned nosegays of pink and white flowers.

Preceding the bride was her sister, Miss Margarette Gunn, who acted as maid-of-honor. She was a beautiful figure, wearing a gown of delicate pink satin crepe lavishly beaded in pearls and crystals. Her cascade bouquet was of pink roses and swainsons. The bridesmaids and groomsmen were showered with valley lilies.

Beautiful Bride.

The bride was accompanied down the aisle by her father, Will Gunn, who gave her in marriage. She was radiantly beautiful in her bridal robe of old ivory satin, fashioned from her mother's wedding gown. It was modeled along princess lines, with a fitted bodice and a flaring skirt which for combined with lace to match. Her corsage bouquet was of orchids and valley lilies.

Misses Elizabeth Hall and Martha Newton, of Macon; Miss Mary Sadler and Miss Douglas Paine were a lovely group assisting in receiving. Miss Zedie Amerine had charge of the bride's book.

Adriel Class To Meet.

The regular monthly business meeting of the Adriel class of the First Christian church will be held at 7:30 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Mayfield, 590 Capitol avenue, Saturday evening, October 31. Inasmuch as new officers will be selected and voted upon to serve for the ensuing year at this meeting, Miss Elizabeth Burke, president of the class, requests that every member attend. The constitution and by-laws will also be adopted at this meeting.

Following the business the Adriel class will be entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Mayfield with appropriate games and other features becoming to a Halloween celebration. It is anticipated that this meeting will be attended by every member. Prizes will be awarded winners of various contests.

Pre-Nuptial Parties For Miss Bird.

Following the rehearsal November 16 Mr. and Mrs. Collins Bird will entertain the bridal party at a buffet supper.

North Ave. Presbyterian School Reception.

Among the distinguished honor guests to be present at the reception given by the North Avenue Presbyterian school on Friday afternoon, October 30, will be Mrs. W. C. Wimbrough, of St. Louis, Mo., who is the superintendent of the women's work in the Southern Presbyterian church. Under Mrs. Wimbrough the work of the church was developed into one of the great powers by which the women can most really use themselves. To her is due the present plan of organization into auxiliaries.

With Mrs. Wimbrough in the receiving line will be Mrs. W. A. Turner, president of synodical, Newman; Mrs. W. M. Rowland, vice president synodical, Augusta; Mrs. W. M. Everett, president Atlanta Presbyterian, Atlanta; Mrs. W. R. Heston, treasurer, Atlanta; Mrs. Frank Smith, secretary assembly's home missions, Atlanta; Mrs. E. C. Symonds, secretary Christian education and ministerial relief, Thomasville; Mrs. J. R. Whitman, secretary S. P. & C. home missions, Waycross; Mrs. Lee McWilliams, secretary literature, Dalton.

The Presbyterian women of the city are invited to meet these guests from 2:30 to 3:30 o'clock Friday afternoon, October 30, at the school, 189 Ponce de Leon avenue.

Highland P.T. A. Halloween Party.

Highland P.T. A. will hold the annual Halloween carnival Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock on the school grounds. Many jolly stunts have been planned. A real moving picture show, six real ponies, grab bags, pumpkin faces, candy, ice cream, a mother's booth and other things will be the attractions.

An invitation is given to all children and their parents to attend.

Luckie P.T. A. Board To Meet.

Halloween Tacky Party Given At Ft. McPherson Officers Club

The Halloween tacky party at which Major and Mrs. H. J. Keely, Captain and Mrs. A. R. Bolling, and Captain and Mrs. A. R. Bolling entertained at the officers' club at Fort McPherson Wednesday evening combined merry and delightful features of the Halloween season with an unusual spirit of revelry attendant upon an occasion of this nature. The costumes created much merriment, and great competition was enjoyed in the awarding of the prizes for the tackiest apparel.

Costumes Worn.
The costumes worn by the hosts and hostesses carried out the idea in every detail, showing unusual originality. Mrs. Bolling wore an overblouse of black lace veiling white satin with a three-tiered skirt of gold and silver lace edged with yellow satin. A bandeau of bright green ribbon encircled her hair and was caught at the left side with a Bird of Paradise. A black ribbon band was worn around her neck fastened with a huge diamond brooch. Adding to the richness of the costume were tan shoes laced with vivid green strings and worn with white cotton hose.

Mrs. Keely's costume was fashioned of bright green satin trimmed with feathers in the rainbow shades. She wore her hair drawn tightly from the face with a tiny curl adorning the forehead, which was revealed from under her vegetable basket hat tied under her chin with a crimson-colored ribbon.

Mrs. Keely's costume featured the bright colors of green and red, the whole costume being veiled with a white lace window curtain. She wore her hair in an old-fashioned style, bound with a pink satin ribbon.

The ludicrously appointed tables, from where supper was served at 11 o'clock, were covered with flowered cretonne. Adorning the center of the tables were large coffee containers filled with gayly colored paper flowers. Empty soft drink bottles held

Famous Old Recipe for Cough Syrup

Easily and cheaply made at home, but it beats them all for quick results.

Thousands of housewives have found that they can save two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations, by using this well-known old recipe for making cough syrup. It is simple and cheap, but it has no equal for prompt results. It takes right hold of a cough and gives immediate relief, usually stopping an ordinary cough in 24 hours or less.

Get 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex from any drugist, pour it into a pint bottle, and add plain granulated sugar syrup to make a full pint. If you prefer, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, keeps perfectly, and lasts a family a long time.

It's truly astonishing how quickly it acts, penetrating through every air passage of the throat and lungs, loosens and raises the phlegm, soothes and heals the membranes, and gradually but surely the annoying throat tickle and dreaded cough disappear entirely. Nothing better for bronchitis, spasmodic croup, hoarseness or bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract known the world over for its healing effect on membranes.

Avoid disappointment by asking your drugist for "2 1/2 ounces of Pinex" with full directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Miss Salley Weds Russell Leonard At Quiet Ceremony

Widespread interest throughout Georgia and South Carolina centered in the marriage of Miss Louella Salley to Russell Leonard, of Tolbotton, which was solemnized at 2:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon, October 23, at the beautiful country estate of A. L. Murphy on Wieuca road.

The spacious living room in the lovely Georgian estate of Mr. Murphy was thrown open into one large bower of autumn beauty. Palms, ferns, asters and lilies being used in profusion. On either side of the improvised altar stood a seven-stick candelabrum. To the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march the bride entered upon the arm of the groom, followed by master John Calhoun Hupp, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John Calhoun Hupp on Rosedale road, carrying in his hand a pure white lily, the ring nestled in the center of this flower. Mr. Hupp, one of the oldest and most aristocratic families of that state, Mr. Leonard is the son of Ida Singleton and Eugene C. Leonard, two of the oldest and most prominent families of Tolbotton.

Miss Laura Smith, on Visit, Lauds Women in Business

Miss Laura Smith, former supervisor of Atlanta's public school system, who has been making her home in New York for a little over two years, is a visitor in the city, having come down to attend the annual convention of the National Association of Business Women today of her friend, Miss Polly Lassiter, and Harold Amedon, of Vermont, a young official in the New England Telephone company.

Personal Notice.
Miss Smith is assistant to the vice president and is in charge of personnel matters pertaining to the American Telephone and Telegraph company. She makes her headquarters in the metropolis, traveling all over the country investigating the phases of work in which the women connected with this great system are most interested. Hers is the duty to educate women who are holding responsible positions, teaching more than the technical side of the work—that of handling human nature.

Miss Smith says that "any woman who sticks to the work has wonderful chances for development and growth. She is proud of the fact that the women measure up to emergencies. Whenever a crisis comes, be it fire or accident, some woman comes out the heroine by sticking to the job, although the public is not always informed," she declares.

Machine Switching.
When questioned about the dial system, which she calls machine switching, Miss Smith states that this development "does not do away with the human side. It only multiplies the number of interesting positions for women to hold, and makes a strong appeal to those entering this department. It is just as many women employed in the system now, the only change is that there is more variety in the work."

Miss Smith places her stamp of approval of the magnificent spirit displayed by teamwork of women in general, commenting favorably upon their eagerness and willingness to be educated in every line they endeavor to master.

During the world war Miss Smith went to France to engage in relief work under the American Red Cross, returning to Atlanta to direct the personnel department of the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph company. Although she resides in New York she claims Atlanta as home, expressing her faith in its great future and that of the entire south.
